Oakland-Moscow Airplane Flight Is Now Planned

James Mattern Announces Attempt to Equal Russians' Air Journey Undecided If To Take Companion

OAKLAND, Calif.—James Mattern, noted flier, announced plans today for a non-stop refueling flight from here to Moscow over the route just flown by the three Soviet airmen.

A new $100,000 twin-motored monoplane has been completed at Burbank, Calif., for the hazardous flight, Mattern revealed after lunching with the Soviet fliers and Ambassador Alexander Troyanovsky.

Because the plane has a cruising range of only 5,000 miles it would be necessary to refuel while flying, probably over Fairbanks, Alaska, Mattern explained.

The plane has a robot pilot and Mattern said he had not decided whether to take a navigator on the 6,000-mile journey.

MARKS APPRECIATION
"I will make the flight to demonstrate the United States development of aircraft, and in appreciation of the Soviet fliers who saved me in 1933 when I crashed in Siberia," Mattern said.

He was to confer with Ambassador Troyanovsky concerning co-operation of the Soviet government in the undertaking. The aviator also expected to receive weather and other information from the Russians.

He said his plane would be flown here tomorrow from Burbank.

PARKER CASE GOES TO JURY
Verdict Hoped For Soon at Newark, N.J., on P. H. Wendel Charges

NEWARK, N.J.—The Ellis H. Parker conspiracy case—a sequel to the Lindbergh kidnapping—was given to a United States federal court jury of eight women and four men today.

The case against Parker, 65-year-old chief of Burlington County detectives, and his son, Ellis Jr., 26, reached the jury in the ninth week of the trial after a long charge by Federal Judge William Clark.

The Parkers were accused of conspiring to abduct Paul H. Wendel, a former Trenton lawyer, and force him by torture to confess to the Lindbergh kidnapping. The "confession," repudiated and discredited by authorities, delayed for 72 hours the execution of Bruno Richard Hauptmann for the Lindbergh crime.

ONE COW TOO MANY
DES MOINES, Ia.—Owners of a Des Moines dairy are trying to solve the mystery of the extra cow. Tuesday, when the cows were counted, there was one too many, a brown heifer. Where she came from no one knows, but she has made herself at home among the others of the herd.

BALANCED BOOKS FIRST OBJECTIVE, SAYS CHAUTEMPS, STARTING AS PREMIER
PARIS (CP)—The Government of Camille Chautemps began its career today under the watchful eyes of the left wing majority in the Popular Front. Reaction in the leftist press, generally favorable, could be summarized in the phrase: "Let's wait and see."

M. Chautemps, twice Premier before, was received with his ministers by President Lebrun at the Elysee Palace today. He shared honors in the ceremony with the resigned Premier Leon Blum, who carried two-thirds of his former government into the new administration. M. Blum himself remains as vice-premier.

Urge Warnings When Blasting

Coroner's Jury Recommends Care Be Taken to See Workmen Out of Danger

A recommendation that the Department of National Defence should instruct its men to see that all workmen are out of the danger zone before blasting is commenced, was made by the coroner's jury at the inquest into the death of James Craddock, 46, at Sands Mortuary this morning.

Craddock was killed on Monday when struck by missiles from a blast while eating his lunch under a tree near government operations where he was employed at Parson's Bridge.

The jury returned a verdict of accidental death with the rider. Principal witness was Walter Rowland, laborer, who had been working with Craddock. At lunch time Rowland said Craddock had taken his lunch to eat near where they had been working, between 125 to 150 yards from the scene of the blast.

"I said to him, 'I don't think I'll stay here, it's too close,'" Rowland testified, but Craddock had felt assured the spot was safe and had stayed there to eat his lunch.

Later, when he returned to the spot where they had been working, Rowland said he had seen no sign of his partner, and on going to the place where he saw him eating lunch, he saw the body. Craddock had been struck on the head by the limb of a tree.

Rowland testified both he and Craddock had been warned between 11 a.m. and noon that there would be blasting during the lunch hour.

Sergeant John Kellow, officer in charge of the workmen, said all the men had been given the customary warning at 11.45 that there would be a blast. He had warned his men and the contractor warned his crew.

B. Craddock, brother of the deceased, gave identification evidence.

In charging the jury, Coroner E. C. Hart said it was an unfortunate accident but it appeared that the man was taking a chance despite warnings.

Members of the jury were: Fred Shopland, foreman; A. H. Cowlishaw, Frank Moore, James Ridley, James Thorne and James Cowling.

Yukoners Afraid Of New Taxes and Liberty Restriction

Representative of The Times Visits Dawson; Annexation Widely Discussed

By J. K. NESBITT
Fearing regimentation, greater taxes and interference with their freedom, the people of the Yukon are in the main opposed to the proposed annexation of their territory by British Columbia.

That is the opinion I formed during a trip just completed to Dawson, the ghost city, with leaning buildings and broken sidewalks.

Some of the people with whom I discussed the subject were very bitter about it. The more moderate said the whole question should be discussed in a business-like way. Just what good the change would do either British Columbia or the Yukon, no one in the territory seemed able to point out. They all would like to know. They all agreed, however, it would be a good deal for the Dominion Government, which has been pouring money into the territory without getting much in return.

The people of the Yukon are free and easy. They work when they want to, in season, and quit when they want to. They have no minimum hours, and no one seems to want them, except, possibly, employees of the big companies operating dredges on the creeks back of Dawson. And these companies have hinted they may have to close down if the Yukon is taken over by British Columbia.

NO MORE TAXES
A few of these employees believe merging with British Columbia might be worth while, for it would bring them and their families under the various social service benefits of the province. But even these men admit they would not like their freedom in return.

BRIDGE WORK FOLLOWS BLASTS

Movie Producer In Tax Inquiry

Cecil B. de Mille's Finances Described at United States Investigation

WASHINGTON—A United States Treasury official testified before Congressional tax committee today that Cecil B. de Mille, the movie producer, had sought to reduce his income tax payments by incorporating his "earning personality."

The official, Guy T. Helvering, commissioner of the Internal Revenue Bureau, brought the name of the movie maker into the tax hearing when he began describing use of personal holding companies to reduce income tax payments.

He said De Mille contended he had made use of a holding company to save money in connection with his business, and this use had been upheld in court.

Shortly after De Mille's name was introduced, the hearing was recessed until tomorrow.

Roosevelt Board Presses Efforts For Steel Peace

Conferences With Heads of Companies; Troops Keep Order in Ohio Strike Area

CLEVELAND O. (AP)—President Roosevelt's United States federal mediation board renewed efforts today to arrange a settlement of the Great Lakes steel strike.

While strike-paralyzed mill cities in Ohio's Mahoning Valley watched hopefully, under surveillance of 4,400 National Guard troops, Charles P. Taft, federal chairman, arranged conferences with executives of the four strike-involved independent steel companies—Republic, Bethlehem, Inland Steel and Youngstown Sheet and Tube.

Four representatives of the U.S. Labor Relations Board entered the picture today, and a fifth investigator was on his way from Washington.

RECHECKING OF VOTES STARTS

Candidates and Agents On Hand as Official Count Here Opens

In a small corner office of the Central Building this morning 10 men sat around a long table and watched Returning Officer H. E. A. Courtney pull long election ballots from square wooden boxes.

As he intoned the names opposite which crosses were marked clerks checked them off on tally sheets. It was the start of the official count of the provincial general election in Victoria riding.

This count, which may not be finished until early next week, will determine whether the four candidates indicated as elected on June 1 will sit in the Legislature next fall, or whether there will be a change in position.

Alderman W. T. Straith, Liberal, and B. A. McKelvie, Conservative, the two candidates most interested in the count, were both present as it commenced. Mr. McKelvie worked a tally sheet of his own. Mr. Straith was given a margin of 81 votes over Mr. McKelvie in the preliminary count and thereby became the fourth and last man elected. Hon. John Hart, Herbert Anscomb and Alderman J. D. Hunter were the others.

Agents for both candidates attended and each had tally clerks, as well as the official tally men. Up to noon only 500 odd votes had been counted out of 9,000 cast.

Premier Interested In Plan For Park

Premier Pattullo today showed great interest in the reported proposal from Washington, D.C., that an international British Columbia-Alaska-Yukon park be created with Skagway as a free port.

While not aware of any official suggestions on the matter, the Premier said:

"British Columbia and the Yukon have, of course, been interested for a long time in the fact that there is no water port of entry to the Canadian Yukon."

"The dispatches corroborate what I stated recently, namely, that the United States will carry out very extensive and new development in Alaska, which I think will be very beneficial to Yukon Territory."

Reports Say Many Italians Landed In Area Of War Before Warships Leave

Germany and Italy Withdrawing from International Patrol of Spain's Coast Because of Cruiser Leipzig Incident, Will Remain Members of Non-intervention Committee; Both Say They Wish "Peaceful" Conclusion of Spanish War; Rome Reports Indicate Continued "Strong Course" by Italy in Spain

PARIS (CP)—A Havas News Agency dispatch from Gibraltar tonight stated more than 10,000 Italian soldiers had landed at Malaga, Spanish Mediterranean port, during the last week-end and that reinforcements were expected shortly.

ROME (CP)—Informed Fascists predicted tonight that Premier Mussolini, despite his recall of Italian patrol warships from Spanish waters, still was intent on a strong course in Spain on the side of the Fascist insurgents.

This course, they said, might be even stronger than before. These persons pointed to an order today which directed that the names of more than 400 Italian fighters who have fallen in Spain be inscribed on panels in the votive chapel of the Littorio Palace, Fascist headquarters—the same panels which bear the names of fallen Fascist black-shirt revolution "martyrs," and those who died in the Ethiopian conquest.

This means the government is giving official recognition and public honors to Italians killed fighting in the cause of Fascism in Spain.

ITALIANS STOP BRITISH SHIP

Catalanians Send Plane to Protect Vessel Ten Miles From Barcelona

PARIS (CP)—A Havas News Agency dispatch from Barcelona today quoted General Sebastian Pozas, commander of troops in Catalonia, as announcing a British ship had been stopped at sea off Barcelona by Italian warships and that Spanish government planes had been dispatched to aid her.

The British ship was stopped off Point Llobregat, about ten miles south of Barcelona, according to a wireless message Gen. Pozas said he had received.

The Italian warships were said to have demanded the right to search the ship, although, according to Gen. Pozas, it was in Spanish territorial waters.

Gen. Pozas said he had ordered planes out to protect the British steamship, whose name he said was unknown.

Exploration For Pacific Pact

LONDON—Foreign Secretary Eden told the House of Commons today Great Britain will proceed with efforts for a non-aggression pact binding the powers bordering the Pacific Ocean.

"Suitable opportunity for consulting those primarily concerned," including Japan and the United States, will be taken on the suggestion of Australia, the Secretary said. The proposal "was approved in principle" recently by the Imperial Conference.

BELGIAN PREMIER AT WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON—Premier Paul Van Zeeland of Belgium was a visitor today at the White House, with a series of conferences with President Roosevelt on international affairs scheduled before his departure tomorrow.

Accompanied by Mme. Van Zeeland, the statesman was welcomed at the Union Station on arrival today by a group of civil and military officials, headed by Sumner Welles, United States Acting Secretary of State.

LONDON (AP)—Germany and Italy ordered their warships completely out of the international non-intervention patrol of Spain today.

Rebuffed by Great Britain and France in a German demand for a naval demonstration by all four powers to "warn" the Spanish government away from patrol warships, the Nazi and Fascist states quit the non-intervention control scheme in concert.

Foreign Secretary Eden announced the German decision to the House of Commons. Count Dino Grandi, the Italian ambassador, then informed him of Italy's concurrence.

The Italian and German ships have patrolled the eastern, or government-held coast of Spain. Their withdrawal left that coast unguarded by vessels watching for violations of a 27-nation ban on the sending of foreign arms and fighters to Spain.

Great Britain and France are the other powers in the neutrality sea patrol. They refused to join a naval demonstration against the Spanish government following attempts to torpedo the German patrol cruiser Leipzig off the coast of Algeria last week.

REMAIN IN COMMITTEE

Despite the withdrawal of their warships, both Italy and Germany will remain in the European Non-intervention Committee, which has directed the four-power neutrality patrol. Both insisted they want a "peaceful" conclusion of the Spanish civil war, in which they are sympathetic with the Fascist insurgents.

In Rome it was reported reliably Italian warships had been ordered completely out of Spanish waters as a result of the deadlock. However, it was said in Duce intended his warships would continue to "protect the Italian flag" there, acting on Italian initiative.

The same, apparently, was true of the Reich.

German warships assigned to Spanish waters moved eastward through the Mediterranean, their destination undisclosed.

OTTAWA (CP)—Two sections of the Ottawa Electric Railway car barns at Rockcliffe were completely destroyed by fire today. The loss is estimated at $75,000. Forty street cars stored in the barns were destroyed.

Cause of the fire was unknown.

were clear as the strike passed through its 28th day.

A deputy United States marshal and a post office inspector left Cleveland for Akron, O., today to obtain warrants charging "interference with the United States mails" against three Youngstown and three Warren men.

District Attorney Emerich B. Freed said the men stopped mail trucks at the Warren and Youngstown plants of Republic Steel, a misdemeanor involving a possible maximum sentence of six months and a $500 fine, with costs.

LEWIS IN WASHINGTON

While the federal mediators pushed efforts for peace in Cleveland, Tom Girdler, president of Republic Steel, and C.I.O. Chairman Lewis both were in Washington.

Senator Bridges, Republican, of New Hampshire, said he would ask Girdler whether the corporation has made an oral agreement with steel union representatives.

Girdler, along with executives of the three other independent steel companies, has refused point-blank to sign written agreements with the C.I.O., thus keeping the multi-million dollar controversy deadlocked.

Girdler was summoned to tell his side of the steel strike to the Senate committee tomorrow in reply to charges made last week by Philip Murray, head of the Steel Workers' Organizing Committee.

Bridges said he had been informed that Republic Steel never had reached any pact with the union.

"In view of testimony by C.I.O. spokesmen," he said, "that the only point at issue in the strike is refusal to sign an agreement already reached, I believe this should be cleared up in the present investigation."

With the cost of the strike estimated at $12,000,000 to date, payless days and smokeless stacks stood forth as silent but earnest pleaders for strike settlement.

NEW STRIKES CALLED

WARREN, O.—Leaders of the Committee for Industrial Organization today announced local unions were calling strikes in a movement which will result in a general strike in Trumbull County.

John McKeown, A.C.I.O. organizer, said the country, which has a 120,000 population, would be "paralyzed by tomorrow."

The move is in protest against a court injunction restraining picketing at the plant of the Republic Steel Company in Warren. The C.I.O. announcement said action of the locals was spontaneous.

There are 34,000 unionists in Warren. The C.I.O. claims 10,000 of that number; others are affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

By mid-afternoon the union claimed 6,700 workers were out, including approximately 5,000 Republic workers already on

Hitler Cabinet In Long Session

Naval Officers Advise Minimum of German Ships in Spanish Waters

BERLIN (AP)—The German cabinet sat in day-long session today after withdrawing from the Spanish non-intervention patrol.

The meeting had lasted more than five hours with such men as Chancellor Hitler, General Werner von Blomberg, War Minister; General Werner von Fritsch, chief of staff of the army, and Admiral Erich Raeder, chief of navy, attending.

Authoritative sources said Hitler's high military and naval advisers were urging Germany's sea forces in Spanish waters be reduced to an absolute minimum. The admiralty was reported deeply concerned over the possibility of risking the fleet in a situation "not worth the danger."

An official communique late today explained why Germany had withdrawn from the international patrol, adding: "The German government has decided henceforth to take into its own hands the protection of its interests and its ships against the Bolshevik firebrands in Valencia—and with such means as alone are adequate to discourage these criminals from similar attacks in the future."

COSTLY TARGETS

Some sources interpreted the statement as a warning Hitler is determined not to reduce his naval strength in Spanish waters regardless of contrary advice; others that Hitler will remove such large and costly targets as the cruisers, leaving the task of "guarding German shipping" to submarines and small armored craft.

A government spokesman insisted, however, Germany would seek "peaceful liquidation" of the Spanish war.

He said the action was taken merely because Anglo-French refusal of Germany's demand for a naval demonstration of warning off Valencia had shown there was no solidarity among the four powers where Germany's interests were involved.

Germany, he added, is more determined than ever to keep the Spanish war from igniting all of Europe.

NOT SURPRISED

Spokesmen said Germany was "disappointed but not too surprised" over the London breakdown, caused by German demands for a warning to Valencia following an alleged Spanish government torpedo attack on the cruiser Leipzig.

"Long post-war experience," these spokesmen said, had taught Germany she could not expect real international solidarity "without recourse to a double yardstick where Germany is concerned."

The Voelkischer Beobachter declared: "With the rupture of the London talks, the effort to oppose a united four-power front against the Bolshevik provocations definitely failed. One must count on future attacks against German warships by the Reds, since the course of the London talks constitutes an encouragement for the Bolsheviks to new violence."

EDEN SCORED

The newspaper then took British Foreign Secretary Eden to task: "If Eden, with his well-known nimbleness, seeks to ignore Germany's anxiety for its fighting men, Germany, on its side, can reply to him that the attempt at international control involved a favorite idea of the Foreign Secretary. Germany supported this plan to prove its goodwill and not because it was convinced of its efficacy."

"Now that Eden does not show the courage to recognize the consequences in regard to the Valencia bandits, he has himself condemned his policy to failure. London expects that Germany will continue to participate in this experiment: German sailors are too precious to serve as guinea pigs due to the ignorance of British diplomats regarding Bolshevism."

Germany and Italy quit Spain naval patrol.

Foreign Minister Konstantin von Neurath had informed him of the recall of German ships "with the specific intention of avoiding the possibility of aggravating the situation."

Germany, von Neurath added, would confine herself to this action.

Previously, Berlin had heard unconfirmed rumors of a possible Italo-German blockade of the French Gold Peg Funds Exhausted

Paris—Virtual exhaustion of France's 10,000,000,000 franc ($450,000,000) gold stabilization fund was disclosed today, indicating the gravity of the financial crisis which Premier Camille Chautemps's new cabinet has been called on to solve. Prof. Charles Rist and Paul Baudouin sent their joint resignation from the fund management.

Spanish government Mediterranean coastline—rumors now apparently dispelled.

The concerted action of Germany and Italy was in keeping with their "defensive understanding" on Spanish and other problems.

Both said they were "obliged" to recall their patrol ships to avoid new "red" aggression by Spanish government armed forces.

Spanish government airplanes in recent weeks have bombed Italian and German men of war in the patrol, and the German government contends a Spanish submarine tried to sink the patrolling cruiser Leipzig off Algeria on two occasions in the last eight days.

EDEN STATEMENT

Mr. Eden's exposition of the situation before the House of Commons included a statement the British government "gladly recognized and welcomed the motives" of Germany and Italy, "which inspire assurance" there now will be no dangerous action on the part of the Nazi and Fascist states.

Europe has been worried lest the Germans and the Italians, angered by Anglo-French refusal to "demonstrate" with them in warning to the Spanish republican regime, should resort to individual action that would make the Spanish civil war even more dangerous to European peace.

Apparently this is not to be the case. Great Britain, however, now is faced with a decision whether to scrap the neutrality control, carry it on with France alone, or get other powers in.

Mr. Eden assured the Commons it was his understanding Germany and, by inference, Italy, would not "cease participating in the Non-Intervention Committee."

He refused to answer a question from William Gallacher, Communist, as to "whether there is any truth at all in the German story about the Leipzig."

The question of asking other governments to participate in the neutrality control scheme in place of Germany and Italy would "have to be considered," he said.

TECHNICAL DISTINCTION

Informed sources felt the fact that Germany and Italy were remaining in the non-intervention committee was a technical distinction, since the land and sea patrol of neutral observers and warships which the committee has thrown about Spain is the foundation of its work.

They did, however, say that Italy-German retention of committee membership would permit reconsideration of their action.

The stand taken by Mr. Eden toward German demands in the "Leipzig incident" was understood to have been accorded the full approbation of the cabinet at a meeting today.

The cabinet meeting devoted its session to discussion of international problems caused by the deadlock. Prime Minister Chamberlain presided. Before the meeting Mr. Eden conferred with Ambassador Charles Corbin of France.

GERMAN SHIPS MOVE

GIBRALTAR—Four warships of the German fleet in Spanish waters steamed out of Algeiras harbor this morning in an easterly direction.

Their departure came after reports Germany planned a naval demonstration against Valencia for the alleged attempt of the Spanish government to torpedo the German cruiser Leipzig.

The cruiser Köln led the destroyers Tiger, Luchs and Leopard past the Rock of Gibraltar into the Mediterranean in the general direction of the seat of the Spanish government.

FUEL IN PORTUGAL

LISBON—A German naval division, headed by the pocket battleship Admiral von Scheer, entered the Tagus River today preparatory to proceeding into the Mediterranean.

ATTACK IMPOSSIBLE

GENEVA—The Spanish government asserted today it would have been impossible for a Spanish submarine to have attempted to torpedo the cruiser Leipzig as charged by Germany.

Antonio Fabra Ribas, head of the Spanish delegation to the League of Nations labor conference, declared on behalf of his government that all Spanish submarines were at their bases at the time the attack was supposed to have been made off the coast of Algeria.

RAIN ADDS TO FRUIT DAMAGE

In U.S. Pacific Northwest Farmers' Losses Mount in Downpour

SEATTLE—Rain ravaged the Pacific northwest fruit belt again today, adding to an estimated $2,000,000 loss and damage in the last three weeks.

Most of Washington's and Oregon's cherry crop was ruined. Estimates of loss ran as high as 80 and 90 per cent.

Farmers said about one-fourth of Washington's State's hay crop was damaged. Hay was also severely damaged in many Oregon sections.

The rain combined with high winds to strip many fruit trees. Wheat farmers welcomed the excess moisture. Many forecasts were for bumper crops.

CHERRY CROP HURT

At the Dalles, Ore., a $500,000 cherry crop loss was forecast, some growers saying not a cherry would reach the fresh fruit market.

Strawberry crops were so hard hit by the weather that the berries sold in Seattle at nearly double last year's prices.

Cherry crops in the Yakima and Wenatchee district of Washington also were severely damaged. Most of the Lambert cherry crop in Kennewick, Wash., was destroyed.

Tomatoes generally suffered from the rain.

terfered with, and do not want to pay any more in the way of taxes.

Premier Pattullo's proposal is the chief topic of discussion in Dawson and at Yukon River trading posts these days. The old timers in Dawson sit on the street benches, in the shade, and say the idea is ridiculous. They feel their personal liberty is being attacked. It is their country, they point out, and no one has a right to take it away from them. They fought their way into it in the early days, suffering great hardships, they have worked to make it what it is today, and, strangely enough, their children and grandchildren feel the same way about the matter.

Many young people I met in the Yukon have never been outside. The few who have been south do not like it. They are lonesome, frightened and homesick and, quite oddly, nearly frozen to death when they have wintered in Victoria or Vancouver. They are never quite happy until they return north, there to enjoy a freedom of life that is unknown to young people in the outside world.

These young people agree with the older folk that amalgamation with British Columbia would not be a good thing for them.

MODERN STAMPEDE

Dozens of young people, fed up with conditions in lower British Columbia, are now trekking into the Yukon. They are going there to escape unemployment, they hope. They live in tiny settlements along the banks of the Yukon or its tributaries.

What do these young people from the outside do? There seems to be many ways of making a good living in the Yukon, if one is willing to do hard work, put up with horrid mosquitoes and black flies, stifling heat in the summer and long, dark days for months on end in the winter, when the thermometer goes sometimes to 78 below.

These young folk keep themselves busy all winter in various ways. They cut wood and pile it along the river banks for the use of the steamers. They take over an abandoned trapline and most of them do fairly well. In the fall they pan for gold on the bars of the Yukon River. There is plenty of fish and lots of game. One will never go hungry in the Yukon.

"I suppose we'd have to report everything we do to some government official," said one young chap, in discussing the possible annexation. "I got sick and tired of doing that outside. That's one reason why I'm here."

TWO SHIPWRECKS

One young couple I met, married in Vancouver last year, saw no chance of making a living there. So they headed north. Hard luck was theirs for nearly a year. They were on the old Klondike when she was wrecked in the Yukon. They lost all their equipment, but, undaunted, they sent for replacements from Vancouver, which were also lost in the river.

The second mishap left them completely up against it, but far from downhearted. They heard of a cabin in the woods near Selkirk. There they spent the winter chopping wood. The husband did a little trapping. When I saw them they were heading up the

Premier King Is Visiting Paris

LONDON—Prime Minister Mackenzie King left London today for Paris, where he will open the Canadian pavilion at the 1937 Exposition on July 2.

which they had just taken over.

"I never want to hear of British Columbia again," he said. "I'm getting by here, which is more than I did down there. There is nothing to worry me now. I make a living. I'm always sure of food and I live in the outdoors."

And to make up for any inconveniences in living, there is freedom—all the personal freedom you want. There are no time clocks to punch and very few appointments to keep.

"What's the hurry? We have all year," seems to be the attitude of the pioneer Yukoner when it comes to time.

And the country itself? Well, it gets one. Definitely it has compensations and a lure stronger than the tropics. In there for two or three years and it is difficult to tear yourself away. The continual daylight of summer with its breath-taking sunsets, the colors of the hillsides in the autumn, when everything turns a burning gold, the forming of the ice, the northern lights, which hiss and roar; the day the ice goes out, the climb to the hills to see the midnight sun on the longest day of the year; skating tobogganing and skiing, are some of the things that make up for the lack of modern comforts.

FOR A HIGHWAY?

Most of the Yukoners think British Columbia is big enough, and one of the few reasons they see for annexation is the construction of a highway, connecting the United States with Alaska, and which would run through British Columbia and the Yukon.

That would be very nice, many of them point out, although they have no great desire to be any closer to the outside world than they are now. But they believe the construction of a highway would be practically impossible. Its maintenance would be a frightful burden, they say. For ten months of the year such a highway would be impassable. Engineers who have been sent north to look into it have reported five and six feet of snow in sections where the highway would run, as late as mid-July. Again, early in September they encountered blizzards.

Many of the mountain passes, over which the highway would run, are at elevations of 5,000 and 6,000 feet. They could not possibly be cleared until after the middle of July. Six weeks later they would probably be under snow again.

RIVER FOR TOURISTS

The proposed highway has been referred to as a great tourist attraction. I think not. How many motorists would drive hundreds of miles through bleak, uninteresting territory, fighting mosquitoes and black flies and putting up with all sorts of inconveniences.

The only tourist highway of any interest is the Yukon River. It is the natural highway into the territory and it is a splendid one. There is a fleet of fine stern-wheelers on this river. They are well equipped to carry freight and passengers. Those who do not like the long trip by water travel by airplane. Dawson is only two hours by air from Whitehorse. The sea route to Skagway, front door of the Yukon, is open all the year.

The possible highway does not please the Yukoners. They think they would be taxed heavily to pay for it.

They are determined they will pay nothing more in taxes, even if British Columbia does annex the Yukon.

The proposal to annex the Yukon, the more moderate think, will die, with no hard feelings on either side.

Two U.S. Ships To Have 16-inch Guns

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt has indicated the United States Navy's two new battleships will carry 16-inch guns. A proposed international ban on guns larger than 14 inches fell through when Japan refused to agree.

Japan is understood to contend genuine naval reduction could be accomplished only through quantitative limits and not by restricting the size of guns.

The navy decided yesterday to build both of the new 35,000-ton men-o-war in government shipyards.

TWO VICTORIA SHOTS HIGH

Sergt. Ashe and Pte. Robins Lead as B.C.R.A. Meet Opens on Mainland

VANCOUVER—The second day of the British Columbia Rifle Association's 59th annual meet at Blair Rifle Range, North Vancouver, began today with a driving rain handicapping competitors.

Two Victoria men, Sergeant A. E. Ashe and Private C. L. Robins, turned in yesterday's high scores, each obtaining 102 of a possible 105 in the British Consols No. 1 match. They were shooting it out for first place today.

High scoring yesterday was made difficult by rain and the use of the small Bisley target, not generally used on other ranges. Measurements for these targets are five inches at 200 yards and 15 inches at 600 yards.

Scores were: Woodward match—W. de L. Green, Kamloops, 34; Pte. N. Stephen, Esquimalt, 32; Cpl. J. W. Lightburn, Esquimalt, 32.

Logan match (shot under service conditions)—Cpl. A. H. Greenwood, Royal Canadian Air Force, Vancouver, 46; Cpl. P. M. Gibault, British Columbia regiment, Vancouver, 45; Gunner Charles Rasmussen, Esquimalt, 45; Pte. C. L. Robins, Victoria, 44.

British Consols match No. 1—First (tied), Sergt. A. E. Ashe and Pte. C. L. Robins; third, H. C. Ely, 101; fourth, Gunner C. Rasmussen, 100.

British Columbia Electric Railway match—Harrison Rifle Association, 489. The match was awarded to Garrison for their higher score at long range.

Gelletly match—Esquimalt Garrison Rifle Association, 184; B.C. Regiment, Vancouver, 174.

Forecast: Victoria and vicinity for 36 hours ending 5 p.m. Thursday: Moderate southerly winds, partly fair, probably a few scattered showers. Thursday: Mostly fair.

BROAD CANADA CANCER DRIVE

Medical Association Launches Campaign For Control and Study

OTTAWA—The council of the Canadian Medical Association at sessions here Tuesday launched a movement to initiate a national society for study and control of cancer in Canada, passed a resolution urging compulsory pasteurization of milk throughout the nation and voted to associate itself with the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons in setting qualification standards for specialists.

The move against cancer developed after the association had tendered its good offices to trustees of the King George V Silver Jubilee Cancer Fund and offered to approach leading citizens of Canada in bringing about formation of the national society, it was explained.

To help the association effect this development requisite funds have been made available from the King George Cancer Fund, Dr. Harvey Agnew, Toronto, said.

The council, viewing with considerable concern a situation in British Columbia, particularly, where consumption of raw milk is increasing, passed a resolution urging compulsory pasteurization of milk for human consumption throughout Canada. It noted in the preamble that raw milk may carry germs of typhoid fever, undulant fever, dysentery, scarlet fever, septic sore throat and other milk-borne diseases.

The report of the committee on medical economics dealing with compulsory and voluntary health insurance was referred back to committee after a discussion that lasted more than half the day. Dr. Agnew said a great measure of unanimity was reached as a result of debate on the report, but that sufficient changes of a more or less minor nature were made to render its return to committee necessary.

VOTE IN B.C.

It was reported councillors had discussed the situation in British Columbia, where the electorate voted in a recent referendum in favor of compulsory health insurance. British Columbia delegates were reported to have told their colleagues the medical profession took no part in the last election campaign after having been assured by Premier Pattullo his government intended to kill its health insurance bill passed last session and pass a new one which would be in line with what the profession regarded as sound practice.

Canadianism In New Campaign

Kiwanis International at Indianapolis Told of Dominion-wide Effort

INDIANAPOLIS—"An ounce of Canadianism defeats a ton of Communism" is the slogan adopted by Kiwanis in Canada. Douglas Bremner of Montreal told 5,000 delegates attending the 21st annual convention of Kiwanis International here today. Mr. Bremner is chairman of the organization's Canadian public affairs committee.

"A campaign of truth regarding Canadian laws and institutions will be carried across the Dominion in an effort to educate all citizens in safeguarding the principles of liberty and justice," said Mr. Bremner. "A patriotic booklet on principles of good government and Canadian history had been distributed to school children."

PRESENT-DAY PROBLEMS
"Kiwanis in Canada must take an active part in present-day problems if the organization is to secure the recognition in public affairs that it has attained in the realm of social welfare and philanthropy," he said. "We have already met with leaders in our government and other national organizations and we have offered to ally our forces in the promotion of Dominion objectives."

The public welfare committee recommended that clubs in Canada undertake youth citizenship training in their communities, the propagation of international and interprovincial goodwill, the dissemination of information on municipal government and safety enforcement and the promotion of cultural and recreational use of leisure.

Other members of the Canadian public affairs committee are: Frank C. Biggs, Dundas, Ont.; G. H. I. Cockburn, St. Stephen, N.B.; R. George McCuish, Vancouver, and J. J. Smith, Regina. The consultant for the committee is F. Trafford Taylor, Winnipeg, vice-president of Kiwanis.

AGRICULTURAL GAINS
In Canada and the United States 1,110 Kiwanis clubs are engaged in agricultural and development of better town and country relations programmes.

Agricultural activities for 1937-38 will include diversified farm projects, dairying and purebred stock raising, sponsoring of grain and stock shows, promoting of county fairs and boys' and girls' work and forums for discussions of farm problems and land use planning.

Canada will have three agricultural committees to carry on these rural projects, the chairman being Kenneth Norman McLeod Morrison, Barrie, Ont.; M. C. Ross, Regina, and Rex Warren, Minnerville, Oregon. The latter of the Pacific Northwest district, which includes Oregon, Washington and British Columbia.

Britain's Coal Exports Fall
LONDON—A sharp reduction in coal exports from Great Britain for the first four months of 1937 and gains by Germany were brought to the attention of the House of Commons Tuesday by Arthur Jenkins, Labor member for a South Wales constituency.

He declared coal exports from Germany to Argentina during the period increased 74 per cent, while the increase from the United Kingdom was only 7 per cent. British coal exports to Canada, he added, had also been reduced, while German exports to the Dominion had shown a gain.

Capt. Harry Crookshank, Secretary for Mines, replied that Canada was a seasonal market for coal and that no reliable inference could be drawn from a comparison based on the first few weeks of the shipping season.

BIGGER SALARIES FOR BRITISH M.P.'S
LONDON—The House of Commons Tuesday approved a measure increasing salaries of members from the present £400 (about $2,000) annually to £600. The vote was 325 to 17 after an amendment that the increase be not effective until after the next general election had been rejected 326 to 31.

In moving the increase Prime Minister Chamberlain said both he and his predecessor, Earl Baldwin, were distressed to find, after confidential examination of the personal budgets of some members, cases of members' reduced to expedients which were felt were entirely inappropriate and improper to be imposed on a member of this House.

Cobble Hill May Seek Charter

COBBLE HILL—Discussion is going on in Cobble Hill on the question of incorporating the district into a municipal area. It is suggested that if Cobble Hill received direct returns from the payment of car and traders' licenses, gas, land and school taxes greater benefit would accrue to the district.

HALIGONIAN TO HEAD DOCTORS

Canadian Medical Association Names Dr. K. A. MacKenzie 1938-39 President

OTTAWA—The Canadian Medical Association Tuesday named Dr. Kenneth A. MacKenzie president-elect for 1938-39 and decided tentatively to hold its 1938 annual meeting in Halifax, Dr. MacKenzie's home town.

Dr. MacKenzie is professor of medicine at Dalhousie University, his alma mater. For a number of years he has represented Nova Scotia on the executive committee of the Canadian Medical Association, and before that was a member of its council.

The 1937 president-elect of the association, who will succeed Dr. Hermann M. Robertson of Victoria, is Dr. T. H. Leggett, Ottawa. Other officers elected to serve with Dr. Leggett include the following members of the executive council: Dr. G. F. Strong, Vancouver; Dr. D. S. Macnab, Calgary; Dr. J. E. Bloomer, Moose Jaw.

Dr. Leggett and Dr. T. C. Routley of Toronto, general secretary, will attend meetings of six provincial medical associations this year, it was announced.

SIR E. GEDDES PASSES AWAY

Chairman of Imperial Airways Was Once British Admiralty Head

HASSOCKS, Sussex, Eng.—The dwindling group of men who guided Britain through the Great War numbered one less today following the death here Tuesday of Sir Eric Geddes.

Borrowed from business to play a leading part in the war, Sir Eric returned to it soon after the conflict had ended, and at the time of his death was chairman of Imperial Airways Limited and the Dunlop Rubber Company.

His death in his 62nd year came less than two weeks before the opening of Imperial Airways trial flights across the Atlantic Ocean—fore-runner of the planned passenger service to Canada and the United States. To this project the chairman devoted much of his effort for some years, all the while expending his organizing ability to furthering the "all red" air routes around the globe.

RAPID PROMOTION

When Premier Lloyd George drew Sir Eric into the government service in 1915 from his position as general manager of the Northeastern Railway, his ability rapidly brought him promotion, until he was first Lord of the Admiralty.

In that post he was credited with a major part in defeating the German strategy of starving the United Kingdom through systematic torpedoing of food-ships.

Sir Eric was responsible for negotiating naval terms at the time of the Armistice.

After leaving the Admiralty he served as Minister of Transport when he carried out the amalgamation of the British railway companies into the four large groups that still remain.

He was knighted in 1917. Lady Geddes and three children survive him.

A brother of the late Sir Eric is Sir Auckland Geddes, former British ambassador to the United States.

Mayor Is Elected To British Commons

CHELTEMHAM, Eng.—The Cheltenham seat in the House of Commons went to an Independent Conservative Tuesday in the by-election caused by the retirement of Sir Walter Preston.

Daniel Leopold Lipson, mayor of Cheltenham, scored a narrow victory over the official Conservative nominee, Lieut.-Col. R. T. Turner, with the Labor candidate, A. Poole, well behind.

The vote was: Lipson, 10, 33; Harper, 10,194; Poole, 5,570. In the 1935 general election Preston, a Conservative, defeated Mrs. E. Packenham, Labor, by 18,574 votes to 7,784.

Locomotives are now being equipped with electric speedometers.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

MR. CONNELL'S SACRIFICE

To the Editor:—Wayfarer's letter, "Connell Aftermath," evidently meant to discredit or make Mr. Connell a scapegoat for the sins of others. I would say Mr. Connell sacrificed himself to oppose what he knew was fatal and destructive to the welfare of the workers of B.C. and to all progress of a socialist movement. For this he was expelled. Can anyone say truthfully that he lacked courage in voicing his convictions to the point of sacrifice of his career? He had expressed his views to the C.C.F. in private long before he was compelled to publicity.

I would say to Wayfarer, your efforts are in vain as your victim's life and character speaks to the people too convincingly for your barbs to be effectual. It is you and others of your views who let the C.C.F. down.

BLOCKED BY "SUBMERGED TENTH"

To the Editor:—An address from a man of wide experience and expert knowledge like Col. Dennis is worth serious consideration by the younger generation. Canada as a young undeveloped country must be geared to go forward, and there is no doubt immigration is one of the most important branches of her future advancement. The sooner we can receive a constant stream of immigrants the better. But we are not ready for them yet, and unfortunately our governments are making no new and efficient plans to develop immigration.

They are hoping the old Ford engines will run the new method cars quite well. And here is where Col. Dennis with the rest fails to realize times and conditions have changed since the days of scarcity and hand power.

The farmers already produce more wheat than we can sell, the good surface soil has blown away as dust and foreign nations are striving to grow their own home supplies, lessening world export markets for us and closing our need for new settlers.

Yet, is it not a fact that an influx of 1,000,000 immigrants into Canada this year would set every industry in the country buzzing with renewed activity, creating new wealth and giving employment to all who can work. But we fear to risk such a policy. Why? Because the submerged tenth would be increased by another 100,000 to the lists of unemployed and on relief.

This submerged tenth is a permanent part of the system, just as interest on money loaned is a part of the financial system. The two are correlated, and when we abolish the one the other will disappear. Money is at the root of all our troubles, but we cannot believe it.

JAMES MOYES.

PATIENCE NO CURE FOR POVERTY

To the Editor:—"A patient person has all the wealth in the world." This Jabo maxim may be true in Liberia, but in other parts of the world the people know that patience won't change their appalling and unhappy conditions, and they are rising from their own (living) graves to help themselves. They have learned that they and their children and their children's children could continue to do "the little things" for ever and ever if they would, which not only keeps them bound in slavery but also helps to bind others.

The following article is part of one which appeared in The Victoria Daily Times, April 4, 1936, headed "Empire War Plan," illustrates how this assists in keeping others in slavery; also, it reflects the oft-repeated saying of Karl Marx that "Religion is the opiate of the people."

"USE CHEAP IRISH LABOR"

"These factories will be operated so far as possible with cheap peasant labor. There is always plenty of evidence how easily this can be worked. There are today in Southern Ireland boot factories established by British capital, which are run, apart from a few experts, by the very cheap labor of the simple, religious and easily-handled peasantry, prepared to exchange ruin on the land for penury in the factory. The goods they produce have, of course, the quality of being especially suited to assisting to tread down, or hold down wages of boot and shoe operatives in other parts of these islands."

OF PURE JEWISH BLOOD

To the Editor:—In modern times many people deny that Jesus Christ was a Jew. But in spite of that, let them look up the Scriptures and find out for themselves the real fact. He was a Jew. In tracing his ancestry by the Scriptures, we find it is clear that he was a Jew. There is no question about that.

Jesus Christ was not a Gallilean. He was of pure Jewish blood, of the House of King David belonging to the tribe of Judah, the chief tribe of the Jews.

ORIENTALS DO BETTER WORK

To the Editor:—In your June 18 issue George Howland of Ladysmith prints some remarks on cheap potatoes raised by our Chinese growers. May I ask him to turn back on his file of Maclean's Magazine for a month or two. There he will find a well written article by Charles Lugin Shaw headed "The Oriental Wants to Vote." The statements made in that thumb-nail sketch of the Oriental problem have not yet been controverted; their truth may be denied, but cannot be disproved, for they are a summary of simple facts which may be epitomized as thus:

The great bulk of the Chinese now settled in British Columbia were brought to Canada by the C.P.R. construction contractors to put that railway through the mountain ranges, some fifty odd years ago, together with their Canadian-born children and grandchildren. They were obtained from their native land on special request of those railway construction heads through Sir Donald Smith (Lord Strathcona) to Sir John Macdonald, Canada's Prime Minister. Their bringing in and employment in this country was authorized by the Parliament of Canada as well as the Chinese government. They were imported because of the consensus of expert opinion that the work could not be completed on contract time by such poor white labor as was available, and which had fallen down on the job.

Finally, Mr. Shaw stated that those gangs of Chinese workmen completed the undertaking to the contractors' satisfaction, which allowed the line to be put into operation by the C.P.R. by the time agreed on with British Columbia in her terms of Federation into the U.S.—the surely impending alternative. Anyone who saw "Silent Barriers" on the silver screen knows that both redskins and yellow-skinned (with pig-tail) had much to do with the dangerous work of survey and of blasting involved in putting a roadbed through those ranges, especially at Rogers' Pass.

On finish of that job of difficult construction, some returned home, but the great bulk remained here on demand of private employers and public utility concerns, who had tried and proved them as most useful and industrious for both fine and rough work. That is their business still; that is the "raison d'être" for their continued presence in Canada today—good work, work better and more cheaply done than any of our white laborers are capable and willing to do. We encouraged them to stay on in Canada because their help in this wilderness of British Columbia was essential; because they were eagerly sought for by private house-holders, in hotels, on dining cars, as expert cooks and scullions—for laundry work, lumber mills, market gardeners; to fish and vegetable peddling they took just naturally. White men have often tried to cut them out, and failed. Can we do without them?

Mr. Shaw shows that in all those lines they did better and cheaper work than the class of white labor available—and therefore prospered. That they came through the depression years with no such ample relief as had European workers. That their sons, daughters and grandchildren are vying with and often surpassing all white pupils from grade 1 to university graduation.

Having put before his fellow countrymen—enfranchisement and unenfranchisement—the simple facts above set out, Mr. Shaw, himself a native son of this soil, states, to put the thing baldly, that no party in politics, Dominion or provincial, has the guts either to return these Oriental friends to the home-land from which, three generations ago they or their fathers came to our help, nor yet to pass a law giving them at least fair treatment as native sons of British Columbia, as citizens with franchise and other freemen's rights—such as, a century ago, were denied to the negro slaves of North America.

AN APPRECIATION

To the Editor:—May I express appreciation of the entertainment given by school of expression pupils at the Shrine Saturday. Every item showed how much genuine hard work and teaching ability had been expended on its production. The vocal ensembles were beautifully balanced, especially well done was "Early One Morning." "The Rose of Tralee," rendered by seven boys from St. Louis College was a fine piece indeed, the blending was perfect, both diction and tone. The dancers showed grace and technique. They were most pleasing, especially, "Her First Doll." Miss Ord seems a very versatile young lady, as also Miss Dacks. Miss Nash's rendering of "London-derry Air" was a real tone poem.

As a complete stranger to both producer and performer I would like to say, thank you and good luck to many future successes.

Warden Injured In Jasper Park

Party Goes to Wild Area to Rescue E. McDonald

JASPER, Alta.—A party this morning was beating its way through 40 miles of the wildest part of Jasper National Park to rescue Edward McDonald, veteran warden, who, missing four days, telephoned Jasper Tuesday that he had crawled to a telephone after being injured three and a half days before that.

The area, rarely ventured into by park visitors, is the range of a large number of grizzlies and it was believed McDonald may have been mauled by one of them. He gave no details over the telephone.

A week ago, it was learned, Warden McDonald reported trouble with grizzlies. He came on two of the animals eating a moose they had killed. He fired a shot to frighten them and they immediately turned on him. He fled to his cabin and was kept prisoner there more than a day by the prowling beasts.

Dr. Norton of Jasper, accompanying the rescue party, said the injured man would be brought out in a sling to Medicine Lake and conveyed by ambulance from there to the Jasper Hospital. They were expected to arrive late today.

Telephones link the isolated boundary cabins of Jasper Park and McDonald spoke from one of them beyond Medicine Lake.

Rocking The Boat Again

THE POLITICAL FANCIES OF CENTRAL and southern Europe appear to have been mixed up in a plan to try to use the civil war in Spain as an instrument to establish a form of government which would subjugate democratic control of the people's affairs to the so-called totalitarian state.

Germany and Italy have said today, through their representatives in London, that they no longer will participate in the international control scheme which had been designed to stop the movement of foreign arms and of fighting legions to the Spanish civil war area. Germany wanted a four-power naval demonstration off Valencia that would "impress" the Spanish government. Great Britain, quite naturally, would not be a party to such a movement.

Germany, Nazi-governed; Italy, Fascist-governed; Spain, with Rebel Franco's desire to follow suit, seem to be trying to establish a new reactionary triumvirate. Germany and Italy ought to ponder over the possible effect of their policies. Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden is being hauled over the coals by the Berlin press today. Says the Voelksischer Beobachter—which, interpreted colloquially, means the popular observer:

"If Eden, with his well-known nimbleness, seeks to ignore Germany's anxiety for its fighting men, Germany, on its side, can reply to him that the attempt at international concord involved a favorite idea of the Foreign Secretary. Germany supported this plan to prove its goodwill and not because it was convinced of its efficacy.

"Now that Eden does not show the courage to recognize the consequences in regard to the Valencia bandits, he has himself condemned his policy to failure. London expects that Germany will continue to participate in this experiment. German sailors are too precious to serve as guinea-pigs due to the ignorance of British diplomats regarding Bolshevism."

Germany and Italy seem to be walking arm in arm in their withdrawal from the international non-intervention patrol of Spain. It is to be presumed, therefore, that they—meaning Hitler and Mussolini—will, figuratively speaking, go behind a curtain, either in Rome or Berlin, to speculate upon the result of their joint support in the fullest sense of the term to the Spaniard rebel who is killing his own countrymen, countrymen who represent a government elected by majority vote.

Again, supposing that Nazi Germany and Fascist Italy agree upon a programme, part of which may be the attempted restoration by force of the German colonies to Germany, and the rest of the programme the attempted realization of Italy's ambition in the Mediterranean—at the expense of Great Britain—what would be the outcome? The answer may be supplied by a simple suggestion of what might occur in the event of the civil war in Spain spilling over that country's borders:

If Germany and Italy make up their minds to try to make Fascism the dominating governmental force in Europe, they will have to take into consideration the outlook of the ordinary man and woman in Great Britain, in France, in Belgium, in the Scandinavian countries, in Poland proper—and, of course, a Soviet Russia populated by 167,000,000 people.

The question is: Is Germany, with her 67,000,000 people, Italy with her 42,000,000 people, ready to throw down the gauntlet of reaction, no matter under what guise, to those forces of progress—also under many exterior dressings—and take the consequences? At this remote spot, far removed from the peppery peoples of Continental Europe, we may say that that we do not think so.

For Old-fashioned Foods

A MID-WESTERN NEWSPAPER recently announced a prize contest for housewives, asking them to submit old-fashioned recipes for old-fashioned foods. In the hearts of all mortals who have plodded gamely through the whipped-cream-and-cracker-crumb output of modern cookery this must stir a hope that the women rally around and make a great occasion out of the opportunity thus opened to them.

We may as well face the fact that some strange fads and fancies have been flourishing in the kitchens of the country of late. Our forefathers waxed great and strong on solid fodder that would nestle up to a man's breastbone and stay there, letting him know that he had eaten something. We, their unworthy descendants, are facing a world in which the kitchen has become an experimental laboratory for a ladies' bridge club, so that a plateful of orange-colored fluff on a dewy lettuce leaf is actually held to be suitable nourishment for hard-working adult human beings.

It started, probably, when people began to find out about things like vitamins. Now vitamins are all very well in their way, and a steady diet of salt pork and boiled potatoes is probably a trifle heavy for city folk. But once science reared its ugly head in the kitchen, it opened the way for all manner of abuses and the volunteer dietary advisers lost no time in taking advantage of it.

They began with desserts, and the way their minds work can be gauged by the fact that they actually tacked a dressmaker's word like "chif-fon" to a sturdy thing like pie. They debased ice cream by discarding the freezer and chilling into solidity a series of weird mixtures of tints and flavors in the ice tray. From desserts they moved on to salads. They took to grating carrots and chopping nuts, to launching bananas in oceans of mayonnaise, to throwing at homo sapiens whole platefuls of raw vegetables as if he were no better than a rabbit. They erected fairy concoctions of gelatine and tomato juice. They put breakfast foods into custards and all sorts of things into soups. They turned puddings from honest affairs of solid crusts and firm interiors into quavery, watery confections that will collapse at a touch. They sinned against the honest potato, by slicing and perforating it into unearthly shapes and then frying it to brittle tastelessness: against the egg by forgetting that the egg was designed by Providence to nestle, sputtering, against slices of fried ham: against bacon, by slicing it thin as tissue paper and broiling it within an inch of its life.

But enough has been said. That mid-western editor has the right idea: old-fashioned recipes for old-fashioned foods. Cannot something be done to make this a great country-wide campaign?

Government By Cutthroat

IN 1924 WHEN GIACOMO MATTEOTTI had the courage to defy Mussolini's attempt to gag the Parliament of the Italian people, he was "taken for a ride," gangster fashion. Now, on the anniversary of the assassination of Matteotti, the bodies of Carlo and Nello Rosselli, who carried on a heroic fight against Fascism, are found in a wood near Bagnoles-de-l'Orne in France, their throats cut.

The name of Carlo Rosselli will stand among those of Italy's patriots and heroes. He was a professor of economics, but not one who was satisfied with abstractions. He had encountered Il Duce's brave bullies before. They sacked his home in Florence in 1925. They assaulted him on the streets of Genoa a few months later. But in 1926, with newspapers being suppressed wholesale, Rosselli had the courage to found an anti-Fascist weekly. It, too, was shut down by the police. Later he organized the escape of the veteran Socialist leader Turati, and for his part in this feat was sentenced to the island of Lipari. The story of his eventual escape is told in Emilio Lussu's "Road to Exile."

Rosselli became editor in Paris of Giustizia e Libertà—Justice and Liberty, and one of the leaders of the underground Italian movement which bears the same name. He had organized an Italian anti-Fascist brigade to fight in Spain and he had himself been wounded there. His murder shows how little Fascism has changed. It is still government by cutthroat.

Vimy Memorial Film

THE TORONTO TELEGRAM REPORTS the reason for withholding from the Canadian public the moving picture of the Vimy pilgrimage of Canadian veterans last year is to be found in the prominence the film gives to the Duke of Windsor, then King Edward VIII, who unveiled the memorial to Canada's war dead on that historic Ridge in France.

The Glasgow Sunday Post which has made the charge that the film had been improperly suppressed by stupid Canadian officialdom, declares that Edward was such a success in the picture it was destined to make a great impression. Before the finishing touches could be put on it, however, he abdicated the throne and the Canadian government decided the movie should not be shown.

Whether or not this is the correct explanation of the delay, we hope with the Telegram that the report the official objection has now been withdrawn is correct. The film is bound to be of great interest to Canadians generally and to returned soldiers in particular—to those who made the trip and to those who were unable to do so. The idea that it might cause turmoil or revolt is ridiculous and just another instance of customary official stupidity. The part taken in the unveiling ceremonies by Edward, who was in France during the war with our own boys, is a matter of history and serves no propaganda cause.

Loose Ends

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

IN GERMANY.

WEEK-END

THIS IS a big week-end in Biberach. The boys have come to town from the country and they are making whoopee in the German manner. The inn-keeper, a fine old German with fierce whiskers and kindly eyes, has tried to explain to me, speaking in French (a language which we both speak equally well, or about 100 words apiece) where the boys come from and what they are up to. But it is no use. Our French doesn't stretch that far. All we know is that the boys are bronzed, jolly fellows with huge bunches of flowers and long colored ribbons pinned to their hats.

It is not the Germany we had expected. At Nancy the other day the aged French porter, who lost one eye in the war, pleaded with us not to go into Germany. "Ah, sare, it es a mad 'ouse," said he. "You may neavere come out again." At Paris everybody had been jittery about the latest Spanish incident. People said we had better stay in Switzerland. Instead, this little German country town is as friendly as your own home town during fair week.

OLD TOWN

ALL THE beloved folk out of Grimm's fairy tales might have come from Biberach. A round, fat tower of brick stands on the hill, battered by many sieges long ago, and the town clings to it, as it has clung since the Middle Ages—high, pointed houses with blackened, criss-crossed timbers and plastered walls painted blue and green and purple, as gay as the German toy houses we used to play with. There are narrow, cobblestone streets, with houses leaning half against them, and a big market square where red-faced peasant girls sell turnips and carrots in the little wooden stalls. Under the great red-blossomed chestnut trees of the inn yard, the townspeople sit drinking their incomparable south German beer. But always they greet one another with the raised right hand of the Nazi salute.

Tonight a tinkle of music comes through the thick woods that ring the old round tower. The boys from out of town, with their beflowered and ribboned hats, are having themselves a bit of a time. Under the trees there is a raised dancing platform and a band is working hard, banging out a jolly, jingling tune, exactly like the sound of an old German music box. The drummer, hammering his drum, clashing his cymbals, is the hardest working man in Biberach tonight.

DANCE

THIS MERRY clatter makes you want to dance—not in our decadent modern manner, but gaily, up and down, like children around a maypole. The boys from out of town, some of them in leather shorts and white knitted stockings, and the girls from Biberach, with their yellow braided hair and their simple, home-made dresses, are dancing that way. They twirl and spin about the little dance floor. They hop and skip. The crowd about the edge shouts and sings. It is evidently an old tune and everybody knows the words. The drummer is working overtime and the thud of his drum and the clash of his cymbals can be heard at the other side of town. In the little park around the tower there are benches in the dark, made for lovers. Most of them are occupied.

About 11 the dance stops, for they go to bed early here in the country and rise soon after dawn. The band forms up, crashes into a new tune and marches through the town. Everybody follows, the boys with their ribbons streaming, the girls clinging to their arms and dancing to the music as they go. Everybody is singing so that the band is almost drowned by song.

All through the town the little procession winds, and the townfolk come out on the pavement to see it or thrust their heads out of tiny casement windows high above the street. In these narrow cobblestone streets, with their overhanging houses, this is something out of an old German fairy tale, the kind of procession that must have occurred when the prince wed the beautiful peasant girl and lived happily ever afterwards.

COUNTRY FOLK

THESE ARE the German country people, the solid, patient folk who have made this whole southern countryside a garden where scarcely a weed grows. They are friendly, jolly, and they seem happier, on the whole, than we are. They toil endlessly, hanging their hay to dry on crossed wooden stakes so that it looks like ghosts dancing in the moonlight, hoeing their potatoes, ploughing their fields with oxen or milk cows or with a horse and a cow side by side. All they ask is to come into one of their old towns occasionally—the medieval towns with gaily-painted clock towers and crumbling castle walls—and make a little whoopee in this mild, innocent fashion.

NEW GERMANY

THIS MORNING Biberach was up early. The band was out parading the streets at 6 o'clock, seeing the boys from the country off for home. They sang as they marched, their ribbons flying. But up on the parade ground behind the fat old tower the new Germany was on the march, too—100 boys of the labor battalions in grey, learning drill, with glistening shovels on their shoulders instead of rifles. They marched back and forth in little squads, holding themselves up very straight. There was no more music in the park. An old woman swept up the litter of the dance platform. The holiday was over.

Pneumonia Deaths Cut By New Chemical

PITTSBURGH.

SUCCESSFUL chemical warfare against pneumonia, one of the major diseases of mankind, by which there seems a good chance to reduce deaths to about half, is made public by Dr. William W. G. MacLachlan, physician-in-chief at Pittsburgh's Mercy Hospital.

The chemical used is hydroxyethylapocupreine. It is one of seventy-six chemical preparations based on quinine which were synthesized by a Mellon Institute laboratory staff under direction of Dr. L. H. Cretcher, and then tested on mice, rabbits, and dogs to determine whether they should be tried on human cases.

For two winters, Dr. MacLachlan and his associates have used as much of the new chemical as could be produced in treating severe cases of pneumonia. For 100 cases treated this past winter, the mortality was 27 per cent compared with a normal mortality of about 45 per cent for 100 non-specifically treated cases in Pittsburgh hospitals.

With due scientific caution, Dr. MacLachlan said:

"We can safely say that in hydroxyethylapocupreine we have developed a quinine derivative which is devoid of any visual disturbance and which appears to have power in affecting a certain number of pneumonia cases in man. Its exact clinical status will have to wait until a larger number of cases have been studied by others and by us."

Extremely simple is the administration of the new chemical. The patient simply swallows it in capsules as though it were quinine. Gigantic doses are given, 400 to 800 grains, or even higher during a week's time. The usual daily dose for adults is 120 grains.

The chemical is also effective on the kinds of pneumonias for which there is no serum, such as type three.

The beginnings of this new attack on the pneumococcus germ and the disease it produces go back to a German observation in 1911 that the quinine derivative, ethylhydrocupreine or optochin, had strong power to destroy the germ. But when it was tried on patients it produced temporary blindness in some cases.

In Germany, Japan and at the Mellon Institute research was pushed to produce a similar effective chemical but without the blindness hazard. Some 20,000 white mice were used in Mellon Institute experiments over the last four years until the present chemical was developed.

U. S. Ship Policy Displeases England

WASHINGTON.

THE administration's definite movements toward rebuilding the American merchant marine are getting in Secretary of State Hull's hair.

When President Roosevelt asked Congress for $160,000,000 the other day for construction of new ships under supervision of the maritime commission, repercussions from England began to reach Washington at once.

Word was emphatically conveyed that the British did not want to lose any of their profitable ocean-carrying trade and that the proposed American ship-building programme seriously threatened current preliminary negotiations for a reciprocal tariff treaty between this country and Britain.

But it appears Hull will have to worry along on that one as best as he can. President Roosevelt and Chairman Joe Kennedy of the maritime commission are determined to build ships.

PENSIONS AT SIXTY

To the Editor:—A report in a Vancouver paper of a woman, after losing her husband, running away from the worries of caring for five children on a $50 a month pension, and a wise judge who declared, "It seems to me it would not be fulfilling the law of the prophets to incarcerate this woman," opens up a large chapter of human interest.

How many women in this great province are trying to eke out an existence on a mere pittance? Rising in the morning, hoping the sun will soon set, and retiring with the hope that the sleep will be a long one.

From Ottawa we learn that there are 170,000 young men in Canada, many with high school, college and university education, who cannot find gainful employment.

There are many thousands of men over 60 hanging on to jobs for very little, ever engrossed in fear of a penniless old age.

Is there no remedy, no solution of this acute national problem? We believe there is.

What a pity that provincial and national leaders, knowing the way out, will refuse to take it, because "our party" may not get the credit.

In the last Dominion election, one of our national leaders presented the idea of pensions for all in Canada of 60 years and over. We certainly believe that if this was made law a great national problem would be solved.

Give all men and women over 60 a comfortable pension and the 170,000 young men would be at work, a large sum of money would be in circulation, business would go straight ahead, and Canada would be once more a prosperous country.

What do you think? DAN REVEYER.

ENJOYS FRED SPENCER'S ARTICLES

To the Editor:—I am enjoying Fred Spencer's racy descriptions in The Times of his visit to Soviet Russia. What impresses me is not the low wages paid to the workers, who probably are not worth more; poor, inefficient, unreliable work being a loss to employer (state or company), but the prohibitive prices of ordinary necessities, food, clothing, together with poor housing (for 10 per cent of workers' pay).

How can a nation rise in morale and physical and mental standards deprived of access to the nation's wealth of goods? We hear from time to time of the standard of living rising in Soviet Russia—such and such articles put on the market—yes, but they are only accessible to the small minority.

Under a soviet all necessities should be distributed at cost price, developing a happy, healthy life for the people, not an imposing front to the world of magnificent public buildings and vast processions.

Officials Rapped In Tragedy Probe

Coroner's Jury Says "Laxity in Practical Judgment" in Beban Mine Disaster

NANAIMO—A coroner's jury, after two days of investigation into the June 11 flooding of the Beban mine at nearby Extension, B.C., returned a verdict criticizing mine officials and mine inspectors for laxity in practical judgment.

Three miners were drowned and two others rescued when water broke through into the mine from the adjoining and now-abandoned Extension workings.

After noting Nelson and Joe Shepherd and Joe Carr died from drowning, the verdict, submitted last night, said:

"We find that no precaution had been taken in boring ahead in No. 4 level on the face of the slope.

"It was also found that one hole had been drilled on the left rib of No. 3 level close to the face.

"Further, we find that No. 2 level, the nearest place to make contact with the known point in the old plan, should have been driven ahead with all possible haste for the greatest safety of life and property. We also find there has been a laxity in the practical judgment of the mine officials and mine inspectors judging by the known unreliability of the old mine plans in the past.

"We recommend that all workings be dewatered where ever practicable in the vicinity of proposed new operations, also that telephones be installed where possible."

NONE NAMED

The jury did not specify the mine officials and mine inspectors referred to in the verdict.

The tragedy occurred when John Senini and Joe Tognola were trapped along with their three ill-fated fellow-miners while working in the main slope. The wall gave way and thousands of gallons of water tore in from the old Extension workings.

Carr was swept to his death at the bottom of the 300-foot slope, but the other four clung to overhead stringers for three hours before the two Shepherds made an attempt to reach a crosscut in the outer slope. Within two yards of safety they sank beneath the murky flood.

Ten hours later rescuers reached Tognola and Senini and brought them to the surface.

MAPS INACCURATE

Mine officials blamed inaccuracy of maps of the old Extension workings for the tragedy.

Joe Wilson, overman at the Beban mine, told the jury that plans of the long-abandoned Extension No. 1 workings which adjoined the Beban mine gave no indication that the men were driving the slope towards death. Level No. 2 was being driven to contact the abandoned mine, he said, and proper drilling was being done on the main slope.

His testimony corroborated evidence given at previous hearings of the inquest into the deaths of Nelson and Joe Shepherd and Joe Carr, when witnesses said neither by seepage nor smell was there any warning until the rumble of rushing waters was heard.

Less than 10 minutes before the flood Wilson was at the scene of the break, he said, and had no suspicion then that anything was amiss.

Wilson was asked by James Renney, jury foreman, why work on other levels was continued when it was known the level No. 2 was being driven towards the old mine. The overman replied drills were kept ahead in accordance with the law, as the main slope was considered solid ground.

Renney contended that if No. 2 level had been driven with all possible speed it would have contacted the old Extension slope in time to discover the inaccuracy of the plans and drain the abandoned mine of its flood water. Discovery of the true conditions would have resulted in the men being withdrawn from the Beban mine, he said.

COULD HARDLY RISE FROM HER CHAIR

Rheumatism Relieved by Kruschen

This woman was such a confirmed sufferer from rheumatism that she thought she would never get relief. But before she had finished one bottle of Kruschen her rheumatism was leaving her. Here is her letter:

"I had rheumatism so badly that once I got into a chair I found great difficulty in rising again. A friend told me to try Kruschen Salts, but I thought it was a foolish idea, as there seemed to me to be nothing that would relieve rheumatism. My friend gave me two doses to try. I took one dose on Monday and another on Tuesday, and by then my pain had moved to another part of the body. Well, that was a good start, so I bought a bottle and it gave me great joy to find my rheumatism disappearing, and now for a long time I have been free." (Miss) A.R.

The pains and stiffness of rheumatism are frequently due to deposits of uric acid in the muscles and joints. Kruschen Salts, by helping to stimulate the excretory organs to healthy, regular activity, enables them to expel this uric acid from the system.

Following the service a reception was given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Williams at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Lofts, Saanich.

Alberta Pioneer Is Centenarian

DRUMHELLER, Alta.—A pioneer of the covered wagon days, E. W. "Grampa" Kendall, still active and interested in life, celebrated his 100th birthday today. Born on a farm near Pessum, Vermont, he attributes his great age to his daughter, Mrs. Charlotte Davis, with whom he lives. "She looks after me so well I never have a chance to get sick," he told interviewers on his 99th birthday and he repeated it today. "Grampa" Kendall is "twice a pioneer," coming to the Drumheller district at the age of 73, before the railroad, across prairie trails. But long before that, when a young man, he had pioneered in newly-opened territory in Iowa, trekking with his family by covered wagon from Illinois. He reads his Bible daily, often without the aid of glasses, and enjoys frequent motor drives.

At the home of Mrs. Davis, a reception will be held in his honor today, attended by many relatives and friends and with a 100-candle birthday cake.

King and Queen
To Stay at Holyroodhouse

EDINBURGH—When the King and Queen take up residence at the Palace of Holyroodhouse here July 5 to 12, they will have a heavy round of engagements. Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret will accompany them. Lord Provost Gurney will present the keys of the city.

A parade of naval and military forces in King's Park will be inspected by the King. There will be drives through districts of the city and Leith to give people an opportunity to see the royal visitors.

Veterans of the "wet review" may be on parade during the state entry. The "wet review" earned its name when Queen Victoria reviewed volunteer regiments in King's Park in 1881 during a terrific deluge.

On July 9 the King and Queen will attend a service of Knights of the Thistle at St. Giles Cathedral. At Edinburgh Castle the King will place a wreath on the National War Memorial. The following day they will attend a rally of Scottish youth at Murrayfield football ground, where about 20,000 boys and girls will gather. The Princesses will also attend this.

On July 9 the King and Queen will visit Glasgow and inspect a number of municipal housing schemes. They are also expected to go to Dumfries. Probably during their Scottish stay they will attend Musselburgh race meeting July 10.

Edinburgh University will confer the honorary degree of doctor of laws on the Queen July 8.

Meanwhile there will be a round of social affairs. On July 6 the fourth court of the reign will be held at Holyroodhouse. July 7 they will hold a dinner party, followed by a dinner party. Next day there will be a levee and the fifth royal court.

W.M.S. Bouquet For Mrs. Church

Metropolitan W.M.S. met on Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. Lee, 535 Trutch Street, when about 55 were welcomed by the hostess. The group convened by Mrs. E. Crumby were responsible for the programme.

In the absence of the president, Miss Baker, the chair was taken by Mrs. W. L. Smith, first vice-president, Mrs. J. T. Taylor, corresponding secretary, reported; the treasurer's report was given by Miss E. Hart, and Mrs. F. T. Cliff told of 127 calls made; Miss M. Harter reported as secretary of associate helpers.

Rev. J. W. Gibson, the guest speaker, gave an interesting story of his work amongst the west coast Indians, covering a period of more than 45 years. Metropolitan Church, he said, was one of the greatest factors in establishing this work.

Mrs. A. Sullivan spoke of India in her story from "Far Horizons," telling of the good work being done under great difficulties by heroic medical missionaries.

A presentation was made to Mrs. Church by Mrs. J. T. Taylor of a bouquet of roses. Mrs. A. J. Daniels voiced the regret of the members at Mrs. Church's impending departure.

Mrs. Church expressed her thanks for the flowers and for the gift to her of the unfading flowers of courage, hope and friendship which she would take with her into her new sphere of labor. A gift was presented to Miss Enid Church, past president of the Mission Circle, by the hostess, with a few appropriate words. Miss Church thanked Mrs. Lee and the members of the W.M.S.

Mrs. E. Akhurst led the devotional, and prayer was offered by Mrs. Lee. Miss Dorothy Parsons, accompanied by Miss Maquinn Daniels, gave vocal solos, and a pianoforte solo by Miss Evelyn Harper was also greatly appreciated.

Mrs. Crumby thanked the hostess and all who had helped to make the afternoon such a success.

Refreshments were served by the hostess. Those pouring tea were Mrs. W. H. Whiteley and Mrs. W. L. Smith, the tables being centred by an artistic arrangement of mauve and white campanulas.

Hawaiian "Luau" By Beaux-Arts

The Beaux-Arts Society will hold its long anticipated "Hawaiian Luau" on Friday evening at the Crystal Garden.

Dancing will commence at 9 to the rhythm of Len Acres and a six-piece orchestra, augmented by an Hawaiian guitar. A haunting hula by members of the Russian Ballet School, under the leadership of Miss Myra Batchelor, and accompanied by Heater's Hawaiian orchestra, will be one of the features of the evening.

Another popular group, under the supervision of Miss Babe Pennock, will include the Misses Tita Hall, Peggy Gelling and Helen Watson, Tom Coventry, John Gray, Tommy Stevenson and Dick George.

There will be novel favors distributed during the evening. A diving exhibition in the pool will take place during the intermission, and later in the evening Miss Betty Fawcett will execute an intricate Russian dance.

An enthusiastic and energetic committee have been working hard to make this an outstanding event of the year.

ANDREW and IMOGENE

By ROE FULKERSON

"Sometimes I wish there hadn't been any Adam and Eve!" sighed Imogene.

"Then there wouldn't have been any you or any me," reminded Andrew.

"But we could have had a better start for the human race than those two."

"Oh, I don't know. They were quite modern in some respects."

"I am not interested in nudism," retorted Imogene. "I was just thinking that Adam was a few days older than Eve, yet, according to the Bible, he placed the burden of the family morality on her shoulders. When he did that, he set a precedent which every one of his male descendants has perpetuated."

"If Betty Jo is going to Sunday school and church, I am going to have to take her. It is my responsibility to give her religious training while she is young. You are like all other men. You keep your religion in your wife's name. If you went to church as often as you go to lodge, Andrew, you would be setting your daughter a better example."

"She is only three and a half," reminded Andrew. "She is young to be sent to church. It would bore her so much that she would be sure to misbehave. She wouldn't be interested in what the parson was saying."

"That's only an excuse," said Imogene. "She is old enough for

ANDREW and IMOGENE

By ROE FULKERSON

"Sometimes I wish there hadn't been any Adam and Eve!" sighed Imogene.

"Then there wouldn't have been any you or any me," reminded Andrew.

"But we could have had a better start for the human race than those two."

"Oh, I don't know. They were quite modern in some respects."

"I am not interested in nudism," retorted Imogene. "I was just thinking that Adam was a few days older than Eve, yet, according to the Bible, he placed the burden of the family morality on her shoulders. When he did that, he set a precedent which every one of his male descendants has perpetuated."

"If Betty Jo is going to Sunday school and church, I am going to have to take her. It is my responsibility to give her religious training while she is young. You are like all other men. You keep your religion in your wife's name. If you went to church as often as you go to lodge, Andrew, you would be setting your daughter a better example."

"She is only three and a half," reminded Andrew. "She is young to be sent to church. It would bore her so much that she would be sure to misbehave. She wouldn't be interested in what the parson was saying."

"That's only an excuse," said Imogene. "She is old enough for religious instruction, and you are going to make it my job. All men do."

"But it isn't only your neglect of religion that I have to watch. If I didn't ding dong at you—"

"But you do!" interrupted Andrew.

"Not enough!" snapped Imogene. "If I didn't ding dong at you, you would be out playing poker with your rowdy friends two or three nights a week. I don't care what you say about its being just a friendly 10 cent limit game. It is gambling just the same, and you can't call it anything else. Suppose I let you do it as often as you liked, and you became known as a gambler. There is another place where the family morals are on my shoulders."

"You know yourself, Andrew, that you got in the habit once of using words which were so close to profanity that they were first cousins. Who had the job of making you stop it? I did. If I hadn't made you pay me 10 cents every time you said 'damn' about this or that, you would soon have been using it all the time. The next thing we know, Betty Jo would have been saying it."

"Who makes you contribute reasonably to the Red Cross, the Salvation Army and all other such organizations? I do. You are generous in every other way, Andrew, but you are absolutely stingy when it comes to giving money to charity. I, who really like to spend money a lot more than you do, have to make you give generously to them."

"Men are naturally wicked and immoral, Andrew. They are always inclined to do things like drinking and gambling and staying away from church. They are inclined to go fishing on Sunday.

They take naturally to the vices and have to be trained in the virtues. If it were not for the refining influence of women, where would they be?"

"Take the stories of the Klondyke and of the early days in the West when there were no women around. What did the men do then? They drank to excess. They shot out their arguments and were generally wicked. Women don't get enough credit for the moral influence they are in the world."

"When Adam placed the moral responsibility of his family on Eve's shoulders and let the rest of us in for the same thing, he certainly did women a great injustice. There was never a happily married woman in the world who did not now and then get dreadfully tired of being a great moral influence."

"Well, Mrs. Moral Influence, would you like to dress up and go down to one of the roof gardens and shake a foot?" laughed Andrew.

"I guess that would be a little wicked," said Imogene, smiling at him, "so I will lay aside my moral scruples for the nonce and go with you."

"Swell!" said Andrew. "Get into one of those wicked dresses of yours and we will hit the high spots!"

Former King Has Quiet Birthday

Duke of Windsor 43 Today; With Duchess in Austria

ST. WOLFGANG, Austria.—Edward, Duke of Windsor, whose name for years the world's match-makers sought to link with every eligible princess in Europe, celebrated his 43rd birthday here today in "splendid happiness" with the woman of his choice—his bride of a few weeks.

Far from his native land, over which he reigned for less than a year, observance of the day was in sharp contrast to pageantry and fanfare that marked the celebration in London 12 months ago, with a military parade and the trooping of his color.

His own celebration, however, was confined to an informal luncheon, attended by members of the royal family and a modest dinner for a number of his friends that night in St. James's Palace.

MANY MESSAGES

Today that same personal modesty was evident. No special celebration had been planned, although the Duchess, the former Mrs. Wallis Warfield, was understood to have arranged a quiet private party to mark the day. As on previous birthdays, the former King received many messages of congratulation from friends and admirers.

Since the Duke and his bride took up residence in the quiet of their honeymoon retreat—Castle Wasserleoburg—they have successfully avoided the public limelight.

According to reports from London, the Duke and Duchess of Kent and possibly the Princess Royal may visit them. It is definitely known the Duke of Windsor plans to stay at Wasserleoburg for the next three months. During that period, he and his wife plan a number of trips to prominent resorts, such as Venice and Dalmatia.

In the autumn the couple will leave the castle, but remain in Austria for the winter. They hope to spend part of the winter skiing in the Austrian alps.

LONDON.—The 43rd birthday of the Duke of Windsor today passed unobserved in the United Kingdom.

One year ago as Edward VIII he watched the trooping of the colors in his honor and issued his birthday honors list. Today he spent in Vienna on his honeymoon with the former Mrs. Wallis Warfield.

Island Scouts Reach New York

NEW YORK.—Bearing a message of greeting from Premier T. D. Pattullo of British Columbia to President Roosevelt, two king's scouts, Arthur E. Freeman, 13, and Philip LaFortune, 16, of Cobble Hill, Vancouver Island, were visitors in New York today. Riding the bicycles they had pedaled from Seattle, they arrived here Tuesday.

The youths left Seattle April 26. Their cyclometers registered 3,349½ miles when they reached the national scout office here. They each carried a pack weighing 20 pounds and averaged 70 miles a day.

They are bound for Washington, where the national scout jamboree will open June 30. It is understood they will be on the NBC red network tonight at 6.45.

Louis Knocks Out Braddock In Eighth

Sports Mirror

By PETE SALLAWAY

BREAKS are evenly distributed in sports in the long run. At least that is what Connie Mack always has said, and the venerable leader of the Philadelphia ball club should know. He has been around for a number of summers. Detroit sped to consecutive major league baseball pennants and a world championship without a single major injury or illness of import. But practically everything went wrong last year, and hard luck continues to camp on the Tigers' tails like a faithful hound.

Ralph Guldahl missed a four-foot putt that would have given him a tie with Johnny Goodman in the United States open golf championship at Chicago in 1933. When he failed to win expenses on three successive winter tours, Guldahl turned to selling automobiles in St. Louis. But the mind of any one with the perfectly-timed St. Andrew's swing of Guldahl is not on anything but golf, and in the tall stoop-shouldered Texan's case it was just as well it wasn't, for his luck changed when he returned to the wars in the U.S. western open at Davenport, Ia., last summer.

Guldahl took the main pot of cash with a 274, the finest tournament score of 1936, and picked up by a Chicago sporting goods manufacturer, the long-legged Norwegian went on to earn $7,000 and the low scoring average trophy with 71.65 for 65 rounds.

In the last master's tournament at Augusta last spring Guldahl, who hits the ball as straight as a string, would have won if he had kept his ball dry on the two water holes on the last nine. So it was that the 37-year-old Guldahl had to wait until the United States open at Oakland Hills, Birmingham, Mich., to score his greatest triumph—the most remarkable one in the 41 editions of what in recent years has become the world's leading tournament. "Give me 290 in the open and I won't play," Bobby Jones once remarked. While they were congratulating Harry Cooper for breaking the old record with 284 a year ago, Tony Manero came roaring down the home stretch from nowhere to take the long end of the purse with 282.

The course at Baltusrol was comparatively easy, and the experts predicted that Manero's mark would stand for years. Before this year's championship the veteran Tommy Armour said he would be glad to take 292 and sit back and let the boys shoot at it. Yet over one of the longest and hardest tests in the history of the tournament, a playing distance between tees and greens aggregating 7,037 yards, Guldahl clipped a stroke off the record, and Sam Snead, in his initial appearance in the big show, fell one stroke short of the former mark.

Figures come closer to telling the story in golf than any other game, and Guldahl's consistency since last summer clearly establish him as the current number one shotmaker. The 24-year-old Snead's performance is a good illustration of to what extent the new school has raised the standard of golf on this continent. The new school makes the game look easy.

CRUSHING RIGHT HAND SMASH TO CHIN ENDS FIGHT

New Champion

JOE LOUIS

BRADDOCK TO FIGHT AGAIN

Deethroned Heavyweight Champion Not Retiring; Louis Learns Lesson

CHICAGO (AP) — Boxing's "Cinderella Man" lost his golden slipper, but he still possessed a heart as big as the pumpkin coach.

James J. Braddock, who in three years romantically changed his dockhand overalls and Federal garb of ruler of all fistiana, insisted today with a wink of his one good eye his knockout defeat by young Joe Louis last night "hasn't washed me all up."

"Sure, I lost my championship," he muttered through bruised cut lips. "But I came out fighting and I went down fighting, and if I get another couple of tough fights under my belt I'll whip him yet."

Resting at a downtown hotel, the ex-heavyweight king, while paying tribute to the new champion, vowed that it wasn't so much the power of the Bomber's fists that beat him as did the two-year layoff after he had taken the title from Max Baer.

"The big mistake I made was not using the right hand uppercut with which I dropped Joe in the first round," Braddock said.

"Don't worry," he added with a twisted grin, "I'll be around a couple of years yet."

LOUIS SPEAKS
CHICAGO (AP)—Max Schmeling made a world champion out of Joe Louis after all.

When the Teuton Schlager kayaked the Brown Bomber in that memorable upset, just a year ago, he taught him not to gamble with dynamite. Louis never forgot that lesson. Because he remembered he's the second man of his race to be fighting man number one of the world.

His poker face sprayed with the biggest smile he's ever smiled, the Brown Bomber told the story and the one reason why he came off the floor to dethrone the game James J. Braddock.

"Schmeling taught me to climb into a shell when I got hit," said the champion. "When he dropped me in the first round the first thing that came to my head was

Negro Hands Veteran Ter-rific Beating After Going Down in First Round

55,000 Attend

CHICAGO (AP) — Joe Louis, only three years ago a rank amateur, today ruled the heavyweight fistie ranks of the world.

The 23-year-old son of an Alabama cotton picker won the championship crown from great-hearted James J. Braddock before a clamoring crowd of 55,000 in Comiskey Park last night, with one murderous right hand blow that struck with the speed of a rattlesnake.

That gloved thunderbolt climaxed a spectacular fight, ending with the cut and crushed champion being counted out within one minute and 10 seconds of the eighth round, after Louis himself had been knocked to the floor in the first round and hard pressed to overcome Braddock's courageous stand during the first five rounds.

The negro's convincing finish made him the second man of his race to win the title, re-establishing him in the esteem of skeptics, who saw him fall a year ago under the falling fists of Max Schmeling.

YOUNGEST CHAMP

Louis, the sour-faced, dead-pan boy, is the youngest fighter ever to win the heavyweight title. At 23 he is just a year younger than Jack Dempsey was when the old Manassa Mauler knocked out the giant Jess Willard at Toledo in 1919. He is the second negro ever to win the crown. Jack Johnson came in before him to batter the relic of James J. Jeffries into helplessness in Reno, 27 years ago.

Critics agreed today, however, the young negro's hold on the crown won't be secure, beyond argument, unless and until he evens the score with Schmeling. The German, still the logical contender, may be matched to fight Louis in New York this September.

Meantime Schmeling is slated to fight Tommy Farr, the British Empire champion, abroad. Braddock, an old man, as boxing goes, and idle two years since he won the title from Max Baer in June, 1935, gave away eight years to the Detroit dynamiter, and could not stand up under that handicap. All he had was a courageous, Irish fighting heart and ability to "take it." He survived seven rounds in defending his championship against bitter odds, but the way he defended it brought thunderous cheers from the huge crowd.

BADLY BATTERED

The fight ended with the game Braddock lying helpless on the canvas floor of the ring. He was bleeding from the mouth, cut and battered. He never heard the referee, Tommy Thomas, count the fatal 10 over him. His hands tenderly picked him off the floor and carried him to a corner where it required minutes to restore him to his senses.

As Braddock came out for the eighth round he was a worried, wobbly champion, but he gamely walked into Louis' blistering fire. Suddenly, Louis shot out with a terrific left hook that landed on Braddock's mid-section. Another left caught the champion on the chin. His knees buckled and began to sag. Then, in the next

CHICAGO—Gross receipts for the Braddock-Louis heavyweight championship fight amounted to $715,400.74, co-promoter Mike Jacob, announced today after a checkup.

This included $75,000 for the radio and motion picture rights, so the actual gross ticket sale amounted to $640,400.74.

Jacob said the total attendance was "about 55,000," of which 48,000 represented cash cus-

LOUIS SIGNS NEW CONTRACT

Promoter Mike Jacobs Gets Exclusive Rights For Five Years

CHICAGO—Mike Jacobs, New York promoter of last night's heavyweight title fight here, announced today he had signed a renewal contract with Joe Louis, the new champion.

Jacobs said the contract gave him exclusive rights to the Brown Bomber's pugilistic services for the next five years.

The contract guaranteed the titleholder, who knocked out James J. Braddock in the eighth round last night, four fights a year. It replaced a previous five-year contract which had three years to run.

Jacobs also said he had signed a three-year contract with Braddock which guarantees action for the dethroned champion.

Washington Sets Two Rowing Marks

Huskies Mark Up Records in Addition to Clean Sweep at Poughkeepsie.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y.—Al Ulbrickson's husky young men from the University of Washington have written a new page in the history of American rowing by making a clean sweep of the inter-collegiate regatta for the second successive year.

Studding the three victories of the far westerners on the Hudson yesterday were two records, 13.41 in the Junior Varsity event and 18.33 3-5 in the Varsity. The previous records, made by California, have stood since 1928.

Bolster National Baseball League Lead By Blanking Giants 5 to 0

History—and especially the National League breed—has shown often and disastrously that a pennant winner is never in until all the chips are counted, but at this writing it appears the Cubs will have to do a major job of kicking the crown away to keep it out of Chicago.

The Cubs, now riding a two-game lead, are top-heavy with pitching power and are hitting harder and more timely than at any other point in the last two years. They've won 18 of their last 22 games, topping off with a 5 to 1 job on the New York Giants yesterday, in which Bill Lee handcuffed the "Terry Terriers" with seven hits.

At present the St. Louis Cards appear the Cubs' toughest rivals, but although they've suddenly come up with a "Big Three" pitching set in Dizzy Dean, Lon Warneke and Lefty Bob Weiland they're going to have a tough time rating that trio when the double-headers start piling up.

Old Pop Haines did an unexpectedly fine job yesterday, but was no match for rookie Luke Hamlin, and the Gashouse Gang went down before the Brooklyn Dodgers, 2 to 1.

GOOD PITCHING

Hamlin's four-hit effort was only one of a flock of crack elbowing performances yesterday. Monte Stratton, Chicago White Sox youngster, blanked the Philadelphia Athletics 2 to 0 with three hits. Old Blub Malone, Yankees' relief veteran, made his starring debut and stopped the St. Louis Browns 8 to 5 with five hits. Cy Blanton fanned seven and tossed a four hitter as the Pittsburgh Pirates pounced the Boston Bees 4 to 1, and Lee Grissom, Cincinnati rookie, muddled the Phillies 6 to 0 with six hits.

Washington walloped four pitchers, including Bob Feller in a two-inning relief role and trampled the Cleveland Indians, 11 to 2.

COAST LEAGUE

San Francisco's Seals were only two games behind the league-leading Sacramento Solons today, thanks to the hitting and hurling of Gene Lillard, pitching third baseman, and the San Francisco Missions.

Lillard pitched and hit the Seals to a 6 to 4 win over the Seattle Indians last night, while the Missions Reds hit everything tossed their way to beat the Solons, 9 to 4, for the first time this season. In their previous meeting with Sacramento, the Reds lost seven in a row.

The Seals pitcher had a perfect night at bat, getting three for three, including a double. He scored the two runs which were the margin of victory and fanned 10 Indians. Dick Barrett, his pitching opposition, fanned five, but allowed 12 hits. The Seals converted four hits into three tallies to tie up the ball game in the seventh.

Los Angeles pounded four Oakland hurlers to win an easy 8 to 4 victory.

A timely homer by Ted Williams in the eighth, with George McDonald on first gave San Diego a 3 to 2 win over the Portland Beavers.

BLACK-LEONARD IN TITLE HUNT

Vancouver's Crack Amateurs Qualify in P.N.W. Golf at Tacoma

TACOMA, Wash. — Five men who have captured six Pacific Northwest amateur golf championships in the last 19 years were pitted against 27 other ace par snipers in the first 18-hole round of match play in the race for the 1937 title at the Tacoma Country and Golf Club.

They were Harry Givan, the defending champion; Scotty Campbell, who twice has been victorious; Forest Watson and Dixie Fleeger, all Seattle, and Rudie Wilhelm of Portland.

Stan Leonard, Vancouver, B.C., winner of the recent Pacific Northwest open, and Kenny Black, Vancouver's former British Columbia amateur and open champion, also qualified for a crack at the crown. Other qualifiers were Jack Westland of Seattle and Don Moe of Portland.

TIE FOR MEDAL

Campbell and Westland tied for medal honors in the 36-hole qualifying play with sub-par cards of 142 and then were to play off for the prize this afternoon after their match rounds. Campbell shot two 71s over the par 72 course, barely keeping up with Westland in a driving rain storm that caught him at the 15th hole yesterday. Jack was one over par for a 73 to put with his pace-setting 69 of the day before.

Champion Givan clipped three strokes off par for a 69 to finish with a total of 144 for third place.

Seattle gained 13 qualifying places, Tacoma 6, Portland 5, Yakima, Wash., and Olympia, Wash., 2 each, Vancouver 3, and Kalama, Wash., 1.

In the women's competition at the Fircrest Club the surviving feminine stars were battling for quarter-final places with Marian McDougall, Portland, still a favorite to retain here championship. The women join the men at the Country Club tomorrow.

Miss McDougall was pitted against Miss Elizabeth Tannes, Seattle. It took her an extra hole to defeat Elizabeth Franks, Seattle.

Yesterday's results included: Elizabeth Tanner, Seattle, beat Peggy Hodgson, Victoria, at the 21st.

Instant, Louis drove a cruel right hand smash to the jaw and Braddock sank to the floor, rolling over on his side, with his head resting on his arm.

This was the moment Louis had been waiting for. He was standing in a neutral corner with a vicious scowl on his face. Instead of looking at the fallen Braddock, he stared with a sneer at Braddock's handlers. No doubt he was thinking to himself: "Well, I told you I'd beat your guy and there he is." It was a golden moment of an amazing career in which he skyrocketed to world championship glory in three dramatic years.

CROWD STUNNED

The crowd at first was stunned. Braddock, underdog in the betting, carried the sentiment of the majority because he had been poor and had fought his way back from government relief rolls to the top and because he is tremendously popular personally. As the champion lay motionless on the canvas, the yells of the spectators suddenly grew into a mad roar, as row upon row of humans took it up.

The dethroned champion, after his 50 per cent share of the net receipts had been cut up, will be lucky to have as much as $60,000 or $70,000 for himself. But that's practically a gold mine compared to the Braddock financial circumstances three years ago, when Jim began his comeback climb and probably exceeds all he has managed to clear since he won the title from Baer in 1935.

Louis, with a "cut" of 17½ per cent for himself and associates, has now earned approximately $850,000 in less than three years of professional fighting.

ROUND ONE

Braddock came out fast from his corner and swung a right that missed. They came on fast punching, exchanging light body blows. Louis glanced a right off Braddock's head. The champ stuck his left to the face as they sparred in mid-ring. Joe shifted to the body and they exchanged light lefts. The negro pounded away at the champion's mid-section after landing a choppy right to the head. Louis landed both hands to the head and they clinched along the ropes. Louis smashed Braddock with both hands along the ropes. Braddock was wild and took a terrific smash to the head. Louis went down after a short right to the head, but got up without a count. They were fighting furiously at the bell, with Braddock taking several hard rights to the jaw.

ROUND TWO

They came out fast and Braddock missed a high left hook. Joe shot a short right to the nose and they sparred. They showed a cut over his left eye. They buried their heads together and punched with both hands along the ropes. Braddock landed a smashing right to the head and picked off the negro's counter punches. Braddock sparred cautiously for an opening and then delivered two sharp left uppercuts to the chin. Louis was wild and was speared by the champion's left twice without a retort. Braddock moved in fast and hooked his left accurately to the chin. Louis appeared puzzled and covered his head. Joe snarled and pounded Braddock hard with both hands to the chin just before the bell.

ROUND THREE

Louis ran out of his corner and blocked the champion's left lead. They pawed at each other in the middle of the ring, jabbing lightly. Louis landed a right that connected with the champ's damaged left eye. Braddock shot both hands to the head, but took a terrific left to the head in return. Louis moved in quickly with both hands cuffing the champion. Both were boxing more cautiously with Braddock doing most of the leading. Louis dug a left hook to the ribs and quickly followed with a lightning left to the champion's jaw. Braddock connected with a looping right to the side of the head and forced Joe to give ground after landing a hard uppercut. Louis scored with a straight right to the head as the bell.

ROUND FOUR

Braddock came out on his toes and landed the first punch, a left to the ear. Joe sidestepped and gave ground. The negro took a left to the body as he countered with a left hook to the head. The challenger worked both hands to the face, but the champion kept crowding forward. Jim kept his chin well guarded, but took a hard right to the head. Louis tried hard to force an opening but the champion was boxing beautifully. They circled in mid-ring without much action until Braddock found the range with both hands to the jaw. Jim tied up Joe in a brief clinch and took a snappy left jab to the nose. Louis landed three light lefts just before the bell.

BRADDOCK'S ROUND

ROUND FIVE

Joe bounced back to the ropes as he took a left hook with his upraised arm. The champion connected with a hard right to the head but was wild with his left. Blood trickled from the negro's nose after they exchanged punches at close range. Braddock's head bounced back from the impact of the challenger's left hand and the champion's left eye started to bleed again. Louis worked both hands to the body but Braddock scored with a right smash to the jaw. The pace was faster as they kept firing both hands. Both the champion and the challenger were well smeared with blood as they exchanged hard lefts just before the gong.

ROUND SIX

They circled several seconds before Braddock let fly with a right that Joe took on the shoulder. Louis worked a left jab to the face but Braddock closed and clinched before the negro could swing his right. Braddock with two right-hand counter punches, forcing the fight. Jim stuck a light left to the chin and forced Louis to the ropes. But the champion was tiring fast and the left side of his face was a bloody and bruised spectacle. Louis gave ground under Braddock's salient attempts to rally. The challenger took two hard punches to the head just before the bell.

ROUND SEVEN

Braddock came out fighting and drove Louis around the ring, swinging his right hand from a crouch. The champion's face was in bad shape and his legs were getting wobbly. Louis landed both hands hard to the head but Braddock refused to give ground. Joe crossed a hard right to the face and Braddock clinched. The negro punched systematically, but Braddock kept countering and forcing the fight. Jim stuck a light left to the chin and forced Louis to the ropes. But the champion was tiring fast and the left side of his face was a bloody and bruised spectacle. Louis gave ground under Braddock's salient attempts to rally. The challenger took two hard punches to the head just before the bell.

ROUND EIGHT

Braddock's handlers worked furiously during the intermission. Louis landed the first punch, a straight left, and backed the champion away as he scored with both hands to the face. They exchanged lefts to the body, but Braddock ran into a sharp left hook as he attempted to sidestep. Braddock went down in a heap as Louis rammed home a terrific right to the side of the head. The champion was counted out as he collapsed in the middle of the ring.

HIGHER WAGE RULE SOUGHT

Taxi-drivers Present Views to Board of Industrial Relations

At a meeting with the B.C. Board of Industrial Relations yesterday Victoria taxi-drivers asked for an increase in the minimum wage rate for their occupation in this city.

The present minimum wage is $2.50 per day. An increase to $3.25 was suggested.

Employers also appeared before the board hearing the representations. It was explained that several firms have voluntarily raised the wage for drivers to $3 a day.

The board made no immediate decision, taking the matter under consideration. Representatives of canning interests in Saanich also appeared before the board yesterday and protested against a possible increase in the minimum wage for cannery workers. They claimed that any advance in operating costs would work against the local interests in competing for markets on the prairies.

Crash Suit Is Dismissed

Ruling that a driver approaching an intersection must keep a sharp lookout for traffic from his right, Judge H. H. S. Shandley, in County Court yesterday afternoon dismissed an action brought by W. A. Espley, seeking to recover damages from Philip M. Townsend as the result of an auto accident at the corner of Fort and Douglas Streets in January.

Judge Shandley based his ruling on a judgment of Chief Justice Lyman Duff of the Supreme Court of Canada. In the case before him the plaintiff had taken note that there was nothing coming from the left but should have watched traffic from the right, he said.

Hospital For Coast Sought

UCLUELET—The Ucluelet district has been without a resident doctor for many months. Owing to the increase of industry and population along the lower part of the west coast, plans are now under consideration to build a small emergency hospital in the vicinity of Nanaimo, where accident and emergency cases could be taken care of. This would benefit those living at Port Renfrew, Clo-oose, Janfield, Ucluelet and other places on Barkley Sound, and would serve many hundreds of people engaged in the logging, fishing, mining and other industries.

The Tofino district has a resident doctor, and the emergency hospital which was recently built at Tofino fills a long-felt need and serves all of Clayoquot Sound as far up the coast as Nootka, but is not situated to aid points below Long Beach.

Clothes moths can live five years without food.

Sound Like Shots Remain a Mystery

Residents of the Foul Bay district yesterday evening were awakened shortly before midnight by a series of staccato reports which sounded as if a gun battle was being waged. A check over police reports today indicated no disturbance in the neighborhood, however, and police were of the opinion it might have been a series of car backfires which often produce such an effect.

REFUGEE SHIP HALTED; PROCEEDS

SAINT JEAN DE LUZ, France.—The British steamship Mariana Mowler was stopped at sea Tuesday by a Spanish insurgent armed trawler, which accused the captain of carrying Spanish government troops.

The Mariana Mowler was allowed to proceed after intervention by the British battleship Resolution. The steamship was carrying 1,700 Spanish refugees from Santander to France. The Resolution's commander instructed the British destroyer Bodicea to convoy the freighter into port here where the British consul and French police boarded her for inquiry.

Authorities said the insurgent trawler was the Ciudad de Palma and that its commandant acted "in thoroughly courteous manner."

Assurance Head Visits Victoria

Ford S. Kumpf of Dominion Life Says B.C. Branch Leads in Recovery

Ford S. Kumpf, president and managing director of the Dominion Life Assurance Company, and I. J. Klinek, agency secretary, both of Waterloo, Ontario, accompanied by John T. McCay, manager for British Columbia, visited the representatives of the Victoria branch yesterday.

Mr. Kumpf is visiting the branches of the Dominion Life Assurance Company throughout Canada, and at an agency meeting here gave a very encouraging report of the company's activities. He reported the company's business coincided with the general improvement which seems to be in evidence throughout the Dominion. For the first five months of 1937, the company shows an increase of 18 per cent over the corresponding period of 1936. He stated the British Columbia branch showed the largest increase of any of the branches.

He regretted to report that southern Saskatchewan was still suffering severely from the drought.

Mr. Kumpf was impressed by the growth of the city's residential districts. He left on the midnight boat en route east.

KEN BLACK IS LEADING

Vancouver Star 1 Up on Joe Rawlings in P.N.W. Golf at Tacoma

TACOMA, Wash.—Playing under the worst possible weather conditions, Jack Westland, Seattle, was well on his way to victory in the first round of match play in the annual Pacific Northwest amateur golf championship here today.

At the ninth, after being pelted by continuous downpour and buffeted by winds of near gale force, Westland was 6 up on Dr. Walter Cameron, Tacoma.

Ken Black, Vancouver, B.C., was 1 up on Joe Rawlings, Tacoma, at the ninth, having staged a comeback after going 3 down on the first four holes. Both men carded 41s medal.

Scotty Campbell, Seattle medalist and tournament favorite, continued his heated drive toward the title despite the weather. Calmly, he sank three birdies on the first nine to score a 34 and go 3 up on Al Buhre, Tacoma.

Lee Stell, another Seattle sharpshooter, matched Campbell's three birdies but scored a 36 as he went 4 up on Harold Salvador, Portland, at the turn.

Bill Yost, Tacoma, and Brian Hopkins, Vancouver, B.C., were all square at the half way mark.

Must Work For Vancouver Relief

Present System to Continue at Least to End of Month

VANCOUVER—Vancouver relief recipients learned today they must continue to work for their relief allowances at least until June 30.

A resolution brought before the city council Tuesday to seek cancellation of the present agreement of "work for relief projects on compulsion" and a return to the former method of voluntary labor was withdrawn.

Mayor G. C. Miller told the council the government had threatened to cut its relief contribution unless a work scheme were put into effect.

"We want to make conditions for the bona fide men on relief as good as possible," he told those who objected relief workers did not have sufficient food or clothing to be forced to work. "We don't want to carry any hangers-on."

It was stated that since the work scheme was introduced June 1 between 160 and 200 men had gone off relief.

The first nine to score a 34 and go 3 up on Al Buhre, Tacoma. Lee Stell, another Seattle sharpshooter, matched Campbell's three birdies but scored a 36 as he went 4 up on Harold Salvador, Portland, at the turn. Bill Yost, Tacoma, and Brian Hopkins, Vancouver, B.C., were all square at the half way mark.

"ZIEGFELD" AT ATLAS TODAY

M-G-M Film Built Around Most Fascinating Figure of Stage and Screen

Though the new M-G-M picture, "The Great Ziegfeld," opening today at the Atlas Theatre, is absolutely faithful to the spirit of Ziegfeld, the author, William Anthony McGuire, places his emphasis wisely on the traditional Ziegfeld, combining the real man with the fabulous one. The resultant figure is one of the most fascinating heroes a motion picture could boast.

But even though "The Great Ziegfeld" may not stand up from the documentary standpoint, it has the genuine atmosphere of the stage world. Its truth will be found in the manner in which it captures the spirit of Ziegfeld himself, and the nostalgic charm that it gives to that aspect of the theatre which has come to be known as Ziegfeldian.

COLUMBIA THEATRE

"Gypsies," the new Soviet picture at the Columbia Theatre, deals with a rather unique problem in history—that tackled by the Soviet Union in inducing the numerous gypsy tribes to forsake their immemorial custom of wandering from place to place and settle on the land.

Heralded as one of the most thrilling screen dramas, with a unique romance and colorful settings, "Bengal Tiger," a Warner Bros. production, opens at the Plaza Theatre tomorrow, with Barton MacLane, June Travis and Warren Hull in the principal roles.

The story and screen play by Roy Chanslor and Earl Felton centres about the lives of circus folk both at work before the public under the big top and in their private dressing tents. It is the inside story of this colorful clan in the big tents, on their special train during the summer tour and in winter quarters.

It is a real circus thriller, presenting the acts of aerialists, tumblers, riders and animal trainers, with clowns and freaks of the sideshow, set in all the picturesque and glamour of a real tent show. In fact, the circus acts are performed by actual experts of the sawdust trail, no were engaged specially for this picture.

Stirring drama in the little known activities of United States postal inspectors and their incessant fight against crime are viewed on the screen in "Wanted, Jane Turner," which will be the second feature, and starring Lee Tracy and Gloria Stuart.

The Story of Baseball III—COUNTRY GAMES AND PAID PLAYERS

Today let us listen to an account of how baseball was played 80 years ago. Here, in shortened form, are paragraphs from the story of an old-time player:

Ball players of 85 years ago.

"On Saturday afternoons, the boys met in a pasture. Whether there were 10 or 40 of us, we divided into two sides, and all of us took part in the game.

"The bat was no round stick, such as is used now. It was a stout paddle with a blade two inches thick and four inches wide.

"Usually the ball was made right there on the spot. One of the boys would offer his woolen socks. The yarn in the socks was unraveled, and then was wound around a piece of cork, a bullet, or a handful of strips cut from a rubber overshoe. The winding of the yarn was an art. When it was finished the surface of the ball was sewed with a large needle and thread to keep it from unwinding.

"Sometimes there were four bases, sometimes six or seven. They were marked by rocks, bushes, or holes in the ground where cattle had been pawing.

"The catcher stood well back from the home-plate, and tried to catch the ball on the first bounce. If he caught it after the batter (or 'paddler') had missed it, the batter was out.

"If the batter missed the ball after striking at it three times, he had to run. Anyone having the ball could throw it at him as he ran. If it hit him, he was 'dead.' If he dodged the ball, he kept running until he came back to the home-plate.

"When country ball players went to college, they found the game had been changed. They had to use a round club instead of a paddle to hit the ball. They could be put out in many unknown and surprising ways. They could not throw a ball at a base runner."

In the early years of baseball the playing was done by "amateurs." They played for love of the game, not for money. Later there arose the custom of paying certain good players, and the money for their salaries was obtained from club funds, or from admission charged to persons who came to watch the game.

Cincinnati became "baseball-minded" about the year 1886. Many clubs were started there, the most famous being the Cincinnati Red Stockings. This club toured the United States and won most of its games.

The year 1889 was the first in which all the Red Stockings were paid salaries. Each was paid a salary of from $600 to $1,200 for the season. Starting in April and finishing their playing in early November, they played 65 games and won all except one—a tie game with the Haymakers of Troy, N.Y. Among their opponents were teams of New York, Boston, Buffalo, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne, Omaha, San Francisco and Washington, D.C.

HOROSCOPE

"The stars incline, but do not compel"

THURSDAY, JUNE 24, 1937

Benefic aspects dominate today, according to astrology. The early morning hours may be marked by labor difficulties, which retard without interrupting important business enterprises.

The newspapers may carry encouraging tidings indicating strong international alliances for the United States. Stock market fluctuations may be sharp all through the coming week.

Accidents may increase in number under this direction of the stars. Many drownings are prognosticated for the summer season.

This planetary government favors persons who direct human destiny, either as heads of government or heads of business. Honors for aviators will multiply through the summer and the United States will take keen interest in expanding its flying forces.

Wearing of men's type of clothing will be popular among girls on vacation this summer. This is read as a portent of coming service in army and navy emergency auxiliaries.

Extremes of femininity and independence in fashions and manners will be conspicuous among young women through coming weeks. When college graduates will lead in peace movements.

Rising trade in sea, cotton and rubber is in view for summer. Gum and rubber, however, are a seasonal development will affect the rubber market before the end of the year.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of rather mixed influences. Losses of valuable papers are indicated for certain men. Women will travel on business.

Children born on this day probably will be witty, interesting and fond of variety in their life experiences. These subjects of Cancer usually have determination and ambition as salient characteristics.

Henry Ward Beecher, clergyman, was born on this day, 1813. Others who have celebrated it as a birthday include Rodolphe Harding Davis, author, 1831; Theodore F. Randolph, politician, 1834.

Dorothy Dix

A WOMAN who is getting her third divorce says she is determined to be happily married if she has to marry 100 times in order to get a husband who suits her.

Wise old Ben Johnson declared that a second marriage was the final triumph of hope over experience, and one wonders what he would have thought of this optimistic lady who refuses to be discouraged over three matrimonial ventures that have flopped. But in his day Cupid did not run a bargain counter where one swapped old loves for new and the motto on wedding cakes was not: "If at first you don't succeed, try, try again."

In a way, however, this woman expresses the point of view of a large number of modern women about marriage. They regard it as an experiment and an experience, not as a binding contract, and even as they swear at the altar to cleave until death shall part them to the men to whom they are being united, in the back of their heads they are thinking that they won't stick to it unless they like it; that if they lose their tastes for their husbands they will leave them for others who come nearer to their ideals or fire their fancies a bit more. And if these others also fall to give satisfaction, why there is always the divorce court around the corner and plenty more men.

There is nothing for which the girls of today so pity the women of the past as they do over the permanence of their marriages. Poor old Grandma had to stand Grandpa, no matter how much he bored her or how tired she got of listening to his old stories; no matter how grumpy and disagreeable he was to live with; no matter even if he philandered a bit as long as he kept his wanderings quiet.

Once a woman was married in Grandma's time she had to stay married, because it was better to stand Grandpa and keep a place in society than to get a divorce and have all the other women look down their noses at her. Horrible, wasn't it? The Dark Ages. Thank God, that's all over now, and it is as easy to get rid of a husband who doesn't give satisfaction as it is a cook. You don't even have to give him references.

Of course, in the past when women married for keeps and took their husbands for better or worse, and when divorce was such a scandal that the remedy was worse than the trouble from which ill-used wives suffered, there is no doubt that many women endured a life-long martyrdom in marriage. There were brutes who beat their wives and kicked them about. Tyrants who enslaved them. Tightwads who begrudged them the very food they ate. Vile-tempered men who cursed and insulted them. Bullies who got a sadistic pleasure out of torturing their wives and keeping them in trembling fear.

Always there have been mean men who would mistreat any creature in their power, and their wives were the predestined victims of these human fiends in an age in which divorce was a disgrace, and where the woman who left her husband had nowhere to go and no way to support herself. And in so far as this is true, we may rejoice that now no wife need suffer wrongs at the hands of her husband.

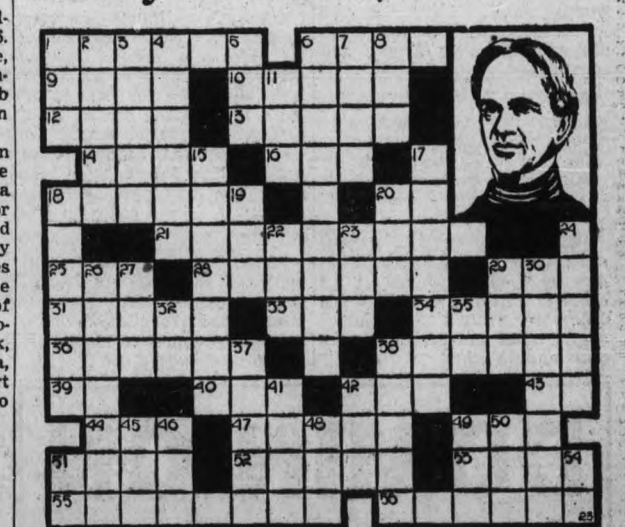

But, considering marriage in general and husbands as they mostly are, I wonder if the tried-on-approval-plan marriage of today is any improvement on the stick-fast marriage of yesterday, and if many women are happier with their third or fourth or fifth husbands than they would have been with their first?

Doubtless a few are, but for the most part the woman who trades off one husband for another finds that all she has acquired is a different set of faults and foibles. Tom drinks, while John gambles. Joe won't work and makes her support him, while Mac is too absorbed in business to pay her any attention. Sam reads the paper at breakfast and Ben used to gargle his coffee.

Passengers Cheered Stowaway Transfer

Incident of Sea Got People Up Early Aboard Ss. President Jackson

Transfer of a stowaway at sea was an unusual incident of the voyage of the American Mail liner President Jackson, Capt. Morris Seavey, which reached Victoria this morning from the Orient.

Albert Edwards, a seaman of Los Angeles, conceived the idea of getting a free passage aboard the Dollar Line freighter Admiral Nulton, bound from this coast for the Far East.

His hopes were short-lived, however, for he had not figured on the immediate proximity of another Dollar ship bound here.

The master of the Admiral Nulton radioed Capt. Seavey that he had a stowaway on his ship and asked if it would be possible to transfer the man to the inbound President Jackson.

The radio spluttered again and when the operators had finished the exchanges the fate of Edwards was sealed. It was arranged to transfer the stowaway at 4 in the morning on Monday, June 21.

As dawn was breaking over a placid sea the President Jackson and Admiral Nulton, with engines checked, were lying but a few cables away from each other.

It had been noised abroad that the transfer would take place shortly after dawn on Monday and many of the Jackson's passengers arose early and lined the ship's rail to watch the incident, a break in an otherwise monotonous trip. They sent up a cheer as the boat from the Admiral Nulton with Edwards came alongside.

The stowaway was placed in the brig of the liner. He will be turned over to the authorities when the ship reaches Seattle.

PLACID PACIFIC

"Just like a mill pond," was the comment of the Jackson's officers on the behaviour of the Pacific. Not a passenger suffered from seasickness at any stage of the voyage.

The Jackson sailed from Yokohama on the evening of June 12, and arrived in quarantine here at 3 this morning, berthing alongside Pier 2, Riethe Docks, at 7.05. The ship carried 91 first and tourist class passengers, including 10 for Victoria, and 49 Chinese in the steerage.

Through cargo amounted to 5,000 tons, chiefly made up of silk, coconut oil, crockery, ore concentrates, hemp, gunnies and hardwood lumber.

For Victoria the Jackson carried 400 measurement tons. This was taken on to Seattle and will be transhipped here by coast boat. Clearance for Seattle was made at 8.30.

L. Robson Dies Of Burns in California

OAKLAND, Calif.—Lawrence Robson of New Westminster, B.C., died in a hospital Tuesday of burns suffered in an apartment house fire here last Saturday. He was the son of A. T. Robson, secretary-treasurer of the Timberland Lumber Company at New Westminster, who came here by airplane after learning his son's condition was critical.

Many farm animals, mostly cattle, die in spring after eating water hemlock, which grows in swamps and wet meadows and is frequently abundant along irrigation ditches.

Solving Korea Leper Problem

Good Work Being Done, Says Dr. A. G. Fletcher, Here Today

"They have just started to solve the leper problem in Korea," said Dr. A. G. Fletcher, superintendent of the Presbyterian Hospital leper hospital at Taipei, who returned by the liner President Jackson today en route to Philadelphia.

Dr. Fletcher has long been identified with leper work in Korea, being attached to missions there for the last 29 years.

He was decorated by the Japanese Emperor for his valuable work in connection with the lepers.

It is estimated there are 20,000 lepers in Korea, 6,000 of whom are in government and mission institutions.

Some 4,000 are interned in the government isolation hospital on "Little Deer Island."

Splendid work is now being done in checking the disease by isolation and curative methods, Dr. Fletcher said.

WAVE CARRIED DOCKS INLAND

Dr. Frank Fournier Describes Recent Quake in New Guinea

Ashes rained on Arrabul, capital of New Guinea, and the tidal wave which followed the earthquake there hurled a great wall of water 695 feet high against the concrete docks of the port, carrying the wharf structure far inland.

Dr. Frank Fournier, Canadian geologist, and his wife, a graduate of the University of British Columbia, who have been exploring in the mandated territory of New Guinea, returned to Victoria aboard the American Mail liner Ss. President Jackson today, bringing details of the quake which spread terror in the South Seas a few weeks ago.

When the volcano "mother" commenced to belch live ashes the 700 white population of Arrabul left the island with all possible speed, and the natives fled in terror.

The ashes from the active crater spread over a great area, reducing visibility to zero.

Fortunately, says Dr. Fournier, only a few casualties resulted. The greatest damage was done to the port facilities by the sweeping onrush of the great tidal wave.

While in New Guinea Dr. Fournier spent most of the time in Bulolo, on the mainland, and obtained many valuable geological specimens.

The earthquake, however, was the most exciting phase of their tour.

They are proceeding to Trail.

Yacht Fined For Breach of Rules

VANCOUVER — Vancouver yachtsmen were studying the Canada Shipping Act yesterday after one of their number was fined $5 by District Magistrate Fillmore for infraction of rules of the road.

According to information laid by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police patrol launch Imperator, the guilty yachtsman passed one yacht on the right side, but with only two feet to spare, then cut across the bows of another yacht, forcing her to alter her course.

Warning was given that all rules of the road will be strictly enforced in future, and a watchful eye will be kept for overcrowded vessels and craft not carrying regulation life-saving and fire protection equipment.

HUBBARD AT KING ISLAND

"Glacier Priest's" Expedition Prepares For Year's Sojourn in North

By REV. BERNARD HUBBARD The "Glacier Priest" (Written for The Associated Press)

KING ISLAND, Alaska (via U.S.C.G.S. Northland) — Taking advantage of a favorable wind that forced the main Bering Sea icepack away from rocky King Island, Commander F. A. Zeussler of the United States coastguard cutter Northland zigzagged through broken ice and landed the Father Hubbard expedition party here over the week-end.

The Northland got away for Nome before a change in wind cut off the island again from the outside world. It was one of the earliest dates a contact with King Island ever was made.

King Island is the home of what are considered the most uniquely unspoiled Eskimos in the world, and, while awaiting arrival of a freighter with the main supplies, Edgar Levin, Kenneth Chisholm and I will remain with the Eskimos, leveling off sites for our buildings and preparing for a year's sojourn.

Bernard Stanley remained aboard the Northland to complete his studies in wireless. We found the Eskimos in the midst of their walrus hunting—to them the main support and livelihood, as they use the flesh for food; the skins for boats and the tusks for carving the delicate bits of artistic ivory for which they are famous. Literally hundreds of thousands of the huge animals live in this part of the Arctic.

The Eskimos received us with honor, the chief and a few men going out in two huge skin boats, primitive in design although powered with modern outboard engines. They escorted us to their cliff dwellings on the rocky side of the island.

Father Bellarmine La Fortune, the zealous Jesuit who has spent the last 32 years with the islanders, accompanied the party from Nome. Levin and Chisholm will remain here throughout the construction period but I will go back to Nome in two weeks, with a flotilla of skin boats, when the natives desert the island for their annual trek to the mainland for a season of work.

SHIPYARD WINS REPAIR CLAIM

Court Decision in Canadian Highlander Case Goes Against C.G.M.M.

HALIFAX—Halifax Shipyard Limited was awarded $26,000 and costs yesterday in a case against the Canadian Government Merchant Marine in a decision by Mr. Justice John Doul of the Supreme Court of Nova Scotia.

The shipyard sued for cost of repairs to the freighter Canadian Highlander, damaged by fire February 21, 1936. The defendants counter-claimed the amount of the bill and expenses incurred while repairs were being made.

Fire broke out in the hold of the vessel while in the shipyard and the defendants claimed the shipyard was responsible for the blaze, while the plaintiffs claimed responsibility rested with the C.G.M.M.

Mr. Justice Doul upheld the claim of Halifax Shipyard, a subsidiary of Dominion Steel and Coal Company.

Modern Etiquette

By ROBERTA LEE

1. What obligation do picnicers have in building a fire?
2. What kind of foods should be served on a picnic?
3. Is it all right to use paper dishes for a picnic meal?
4. Is it ever permissible to use a toothpick?
5. Is a woman appropriately dressed for a picnic if she has no high-heeled shoes and a silk dress?

What would you do if— You want someone in a group to repeat a story that seems particularly apt—

- (a) Say, "John, tell them about the hillbilly story. It's the best I've ever heard."
- (b) Say, "John, maybe they haven't heard your hillbilly story."
- (c) Say, "John, how does that hillbilly story of yours go?"

Answers

1. Be sure the fire is entirely out before leaving.
 2. Foods easily eaten.
 3. Yes.
 4. Yes, on a picnic—to hold the halves of a stuffed egg together.
 5. No.
- Best "What Would You Do" solution—(c). (a) is too much of a build-up and (b) implies that everyone else has heard the story.

DOWN THE GANGWAY

Russian stylist says women of Shanghai are distinctly modish, even Chinese—Passengers by President Jackson display keen interest in Louis-Braddock fight—Surgery professor from Rockefeller Foundation at Peiping arrives.

Watching the fashion trend and selling it to the Shanghai public is the business of Miss Ekaterina Sahovsky, who arrived here this morning by Ss. President Jackson on a buying tour.

The women of Shanghai, even the Chinese, are very discriminating and will buy only the most fashionable clothes, says Miss Sahovsky, who makes frequent trips to Canada and the United States for the purpose of restocking her stylish shop in Shanghai.

Probably the keenest fight fan aboard the President Jackson, here today, was R. M. O'Rourke, an engineer, who has been in the Philippines for his company, the Dorr Mining Machinery Company of Denver, Colo.

"I lost $100 on Braddock, but it was a good fight while it lasted," said Mr. O'Rourke.

The radio reception on the ship was excellent and much interest in the bout was displayed by ship's passengers, Mr. O'Rourke said.

Professor of surgery connected with the Peiping Medical Board, Rockefeller Foundation, who has been stationed at the ancient Chinese capital for fifteen years, Dr. H. H. Loucks reached here today by the President Jackson. He is en route to New York with his wife and their son, Charles Lyman.

The U.S. naval contingent aboard the President Jackson included Lieut. Commander R. G. Rhodon, who has been attached to the shore station at Cavite, Philippine Islands. He is accompanied by his wife.

Lieut. R. H. Barrett, U.S. navy officer attached to the dental corps, has been serving with the U.S.S. Augusta, flagship of the United States Asiatic squadron in the Far East.

Others returning from a period of duty on the eastern station were: Lieut. R. S. Trower, wife and child, and Lieut. J. F. Delaney, wife and child.

After making a round trip to the Orient by the President Jackson, Mrs. C. F. Bryant, wife of Capt. Clyde F. Bryant, commander of Ss. President McKinley, returned here today and proceeded to Seattle by the liner.

Miss Sonna Felt, Seattle beautician, and Mrs. W. N. Gray of Spokane were Orient tourists returning today by the President Jackson. They made the round trip on the liner with Mrs. Clyde F. Bryant.

Recuperating from an illness, S. G. Morgan, Goodyear Rubber Company executive at Akron, Ohio, was a passenger with his wife aboard the American Mail ship from Manila.

Hurrying to Rochester, Minn., where he will undergo an operation at the Mayo Brothers' clinic, M. Costello of Manila, a retired member of the police force there, was a passenger on the President Jackson today.

A. L. Rudes, vice-president of the Kling Plantation Company, Cotabato, P.I., boarded the President Jackson at Manila to make a business trip to the United States. He went on by the ship to Seattle.

Passengers coming ashore here from Ss. President Jackson included Frank Fournier, Canadian geologist who has been exploring in the British mandated territory of New Guinea, and who was there at the time of the earthquake and tidal wave, accompanied by his wife and child. Mrs. Fournier is a graduate of the University of British Columbia and was formerly an editor of The Ubysses.

They were met here by Mrs. McDiarmid of Trail, B.C.

Others debarking here were Mrs. F. R. Dewing, wife of a member of the finance department of the Shanghai Municipal Council, accompanied by her children, who will holiday in Victoria. Mrs. Dewing's mother, Mrs. F. A. McCann of Shanghai, also came in by the President liner.

W. J. Billing, who has been serving as a member of the Shanghai municipal force, is returning to his home in Devonshire, England. Rev. and Mrs. E. Rowlands, missionaries from Hankow, China, were among those landing here, bound to England via Canada.

Caledonia To Open Atlantic Air Route

Imperial Airways and Pan-American Flights to Start July 5

LONDON—Imperial Airways' first survey flight across the North Atlantic will begin July 5, it was announced officially today.

Establishment of the trans-Atlantic service will be proceeded with in three stages, it was indicated. First, there will be a series of test flights. Then an experimental airmail service will be started. Finally, at a later date, mail and passenger service, twice weekly in each direction, will be established.

On the evening of July 5, the long-range flying boat Caledonia will take off from Rynafna on the Shannon for Botwood, Nfld., thence to Montreal and New York. The ship will carry a pilot, first officer, engineer and two wireless operators. It will also carry an automatic pilot.

OTTAWA — Latest information reaching Transport Minister C. D. Howe by cable from England was to the effect that on July 5 the North Atlantic air route between Ireland and Canada would be pioneered by the Imperial and Pan-American Airways.

The latter company will start a plane from New York for Foynes, Ireland, and Southampton. At the same time an Imperial Airways flying boat will take off from Foynes for Montreal. Both flights will make Montreal and Botwood, Newfoundland, stopping places, in accordance with the plans tentatively made for a regular trans-Atlantic passenger and mail service.

Shediac, N.B., will be an alternative port to Montreal, radio facilities having been provided at both points.

Earlier reports were to the effect the Pan-American test flight had been postponed indefinitely. Advances to the minister, however, indicated both organizations would participate in the July 5 attempt. They recently co-operated in pioneering the New York-Bermuda route.
